10 WAYS WATER WORKS!

by Chelsea Dixon-Miller

Keep the sex hot and the lovin' good- in the water. Kassandra is giving you ten ways to have a fun and wild time in, and with, liquid. Summer time is here and we're all looking to cool down, but your sex life can keep full steam ahead.

A man and a woman are shown from the waist up, sitting in a shower. The man is on the left, shirtless, and the woman is on the right, wearing a black bikini. They are both looking towards the left. Water is spraying all around them, creating a misty atmosphere. The background is dark, and the water droplets are illuminated, giving the scene a soft, intimate feel.

Bonus Tips to get your tip “in”:

*Remember to bring blankets and towels for any outdoor sex-venture

*Water can often take away a women’s natural lubricant. Silicone based lubrication will help you both enjoy the experience.

*Most women are private sexual beings. Make sure you pick the right time around public locations, when it’s empty of other’s when you get started.

*Sex includes hand-jobs, oral, and your hands on her. Don’t push for penetration. Wait until she’s ready and craving it. Then, it’s all the better.

10 WAYS WATER WORKS!

1.) THE OCEAN

On the next vacation, make sure you take your lady for a long stroll on the beach. Preferably at night. A little sex-on-the-beach never hurt anyone. AND, it's not just a drink fellas. After you get her warmed up, move into the ocean. Just lay her on the sand and let the waves wash over you two. Remember to bring towels to dry off with, because she'll be VERY wet.

2.) THE POOL:

There are so many different positions that can be negotiated in a pool environment. Use the stairs, the rails, the landing, and the pool's edge. Thrust and rock away as you see fit. Just being outside the bedroom will create an extra element of pleasure for your woman.

3.) THE SHOWER:

Use the detachable shower head for all your sexual needs. Prop one of her legs up and pleasure her with it. Try inserting yourself from behind, while you're both standing. You'll reach a different angle and level of pleasure.

4.) THE JACUZZI:

Whoever invented the jacuzzi obviously invented it for sex. A warm, bubbly atmosphere where the man can sit and the woman can ride. There has never been a more sensual experience. Kiss her breasts as they float atop the water for you. This will help her warm up and you slide right in.

5.) THE TUB:

Try a new position with a full tub. Lay down in the tub and have her place her feet on both sides of you. Slide your member in and have her bounce away on top. With water splashing and the excitement building, it's sure to be a squirting night for the both of you.

6.) THE BOAT:

Whether you're in a canoe, kayak, dingy, or yacht- sex can be had. Hang her over the side rail and enter her from the back. After several pumps and minutes, pull out and kiss her all over. Perform oral sex on her from the back as well. She'll marvel at your new moves and love the change of scenery. Finish with her sprawled over the side of the boat and facing you so you can enjoy her "O" face.

7.) JET SKIS:

After a day of fun in the sun, pull the ski into a shady corner. Have her ride you, using the handlebars for leverage. The two of you may never return from this kind of paradise.

8.) THE RIVER:

If you're camping or hiking, a little rendezvous by the river could heat things up. Lay out a blanket, maybe early in the morning OR during sunset when the lighting is nice. Kiss her from head to feet. Something about women really relates to nature. She'll open right up. And you'll be flowing like the river!

9.) ICE CUBES:

Frozen water can be really sexy. When you're naked and romping in bed, bring out a couple ice cubes from the freezer and just see what happens. Rub them around her feet, drip them on her stomach, and suck on them along with her nipples. Take them in and out of your mouth to make them melt. She'll melt too. It will be a very sexy experience.

10.) SURFING:

A surfboard can be a nice propping tool for the sexual endeavor. After a fun surf sesh, bring the board to the sand, throw her on top and let it ride. A nice sandy bum can be sexy. Gently undo her bathing suit and let the good times roll. You two will be like frolicking nymphs, naked on the beach.

TRY SOMETHING NEW, ONE OR ALL, OF THESE EXCITING WATER VENTURES.
GET SEXY IN THE NATURAL ELEMENT OF WATER, YOU WET AND WILD KASANOVA.

HAIRSTYLE TIPS

Your hairstyle is a reflection of your personality... So have fun with it or keep it clean cut, whether you have long or short, straight or curly hair... these tips can get you the hot look you're looking for. Be sure to match the hairstyle that best suits your face shape.

DIAMOND

Oval/Round Shaped- For a round shaped face you want to have a little more length all over. Also, a goatee is a great accent for this face type. You want to draw more attention to your locks by keeping more length. A pomade styled spike looks great too. We recommend American Crew Tea Tree Light Hold Styling Cream

www.AmericanCrew.com

Square Shaped- Men with a square shaped jaw line want to make their face look slightly leaner and less box-like. We recommend a short cut or shave with a light close to skin all over beard. Simply grow your facial hair out for several weeks and then use clippers to keep the length short. Try AXE Messy Look Paste and comb through your hair with your fingers for a relaxed but stylish look. www.theaxeffect.com

Triangular-With this jaw line you have a more prominent chin. You want to balance it with longer length at the crown, shorter side burns. A full beard will also help soften your features. A slicked back look is always sheik or a lightly gelled casual style is great for any occasion.

For optimal beard shaving and grooming, we suggest the art of shaving kit Pure Badger Black Brush Set - unscented

www.artofshaving.com

Rectangular/Oblong Shaped- If you have this face shape, a beard is a great way to balance your features out by visually shortening the length of your face while creating the illusion that your face is more oval. Keep hair length at 2 inches max at crown and keep sides slightly shorter. Keep hair in place with a firm gel. We recommend Bed Head for Men Power Play firm finish gel

www.tigihaircare.com

Pear/Diamond Shaped- With this face shape, incorporating side burns into your hairstyle will give your face a strong masculine look with balance. A short style shaved or cut at 1.5inches compliments this face shape best. A light stroke across the hair tips of Precision Putty by Gillette will give this look a stylish shine and light hold.

What Women Want...in

You

© 2004 Playboy Publishing Group, Inc. All rights reserved.

W

hat do women want? We're the ultimate enigma. Here are a couple helpful hints to unlock the mystery...

Women are all about the work up. The effort you put in makes us know we're worth it. Whether we make you wait or not, the truth is, we want it. Long and hard. But, you have to get us warmed up and purring first. Foreplay is more than a sexual touch for women. It's the whole package. It's the aesthetic and confidence of a man before we even think about dropping that dress to the floor. What do women want? We want a sexy man that makes us feel sexier. Here's how to get it.

BY CHELSEA DILLON-MILLER

1.) SEXY BODY: Work out! Nothing gets us more hot and steamy than six pack abs and rock hard arms. Target your shoulders and chest too, women love it when muscles pop, it makes us undress you with our eyes. You won't have to work too hard after that, our panties will already be off.

Get it: Try 100 sit ups and pull ups a day. See if that doesn't help out the ol' sex life.

2.) TAN: There's nothing hotter than a perfect tan. Matthew McConaughey, Antonio Banderas, Javier Bardem? All different walks of life and these leading men have one thing in common: they have killer tans. Talk about accentuating your rock hard body. This is the key!

Get it: Try a self tanner, spray tan, or get out there in the sun and ray it up.

3.) PERFECT TEETH: Brighten away. It'll make us want to kiss and lick you everywhere.

Get it: Ask your dentist what their whitening treatment is. Whatever the cost, it'll pay off three fold in bed.

4.) NICE UNDERWEAR: Two words: Boxer Briefs. We want to be teased and tempted, just like men. When the two of us are down to our skivvies, we want to make sure you take care of yourself. That gives us an idea of how you'll take care of us.

Get it: Kellan Lutz, an actor in the famous Twilight series, is the newest underwear model for Calvin Klein. Women worldwide are raving over this ad. We're just saying, we might relate you with him if you put on these sexy tidy whites. <http://gainmusclenow.net/wp-content/uploads/2010/09/Kellan-Lutz-Calvin-Klein-Underwear-Ad1.jpg>

5.) WELL FITTING CLOTHES: Make sure your shirts fit right, your pants hug your butt, and the hem is right on. Nothing is worse than ill fitting clothes. Trust us, this isn't a gay thing. This is a "get the right look" thing. If we know you're trying, we're likely to help and get hot.

6.) NICE SHOES: Again, good shoes aren't just for Europeans. Try a different, sexy brand. They'll give you that finished, James Bond look. We'll take you shaken and straight up.

Get it: Head to Nordstrom and talk to a shoe girl. You might just get to flirt, too.

7.) BE A GENTLEMAN: Open doors, pull out seats: Gives us an idea of what's to come later. Manners are never out of style. You better work for it.

8.) MAN-SCAPING: Yes, we're going there. Trim that stuff up. You'll be surprised what happens after. We're not saying you have to shave or wax, but a nice trimmed package is a present every girl is willing to open.

Get it: Try the 11-piece trim set by Bey-Berk available for $50 on www.amazon.com.

9.) Gelled Hair and Manicured Facial Hair:

"I really like it when a man is scruffy," says the sexy Haley S. Know when to clean shave it (for dinner and such), and when to leave your beard (when you're about to lay us down).

Always put gel in your hair with a little water for a clean, fresh head hair look.

10.) SEX: Be into us. Let us know that you would rather hold back on your satisfaction until we're right there with you. Massage us. Worship us. Make us feel sexy. After that, you'll get yours.

As far as anatomy goes, know what's on us, and where it is. Get to know our clit, well. Very well. Spend so much time with that thing to the point where you consider it your best friend. Know where our moles are. Our beauty marks. Memorize our body. It's sexy.

BONUS TIP: Going down is a MUST for most women. Sex just isn't the same without it. Some women can't climax without it. So, the lesson here is this is a necessity. Get into it and so will we. Women rarely ask for it, but we always want it. Who knows? It might be your turn after.

Go ahead Kasanova, give that woman exactly what she wants.

JAGUAR CX-75

Wishful

Thinking...

The newest super car concept to come from the distinguished British motor car company is the ferocious feline the Jaguar CX-75. First making an appearance at the 2010 Paris auto show giving a glimpse at what the automaker has in store for us. The supercar is Jaguar's new take on 20th century automotive design. Not only is it absolutely breathtaking to look at, it also has as much technology under its skin to make Bill Gates green with envy. It's a true hybrid with four wheel mounted electric motors with 195 horsepower each, producing 780 horse power and an astounding 1180 lb/ft of torque just from the electric motors. The concept also utilizes two gasoline turbine generators (80,000 rpm) to produce an additional 188 horsepower and power the lithium ion batteries increasing the Jaguar's electric range to 560 miles. If it is scheduled for production it will most likely be equipped with a 4 cylinder supercharged 1.9 liter engine adding to the total horse power of this prowling panther making well over 1000 Hp. Final figures to be determined.

With all that power the figures are impressive to say the least. Jaguar claims that the CX-75 will hurtle you down the road with 0-62mph times under 3 seconds and a top speed of well over 200 mph. The Jaguar CX-75 is equipped with 20 inch wheels in front and 21 inch wheels in back providing the grip the car needs. This is one of the coolest concepts I've seen, whether it is equipped with the turbine engines or the 4cyl, it would be an ultra futuristic car and everyone would drool over this Jaguar. It's jam packed with tons of technology.

Jaguar started with a blank canvas and designed a truly revolutionary super car. Jaguar has had a long history of using aluminum; in fact 70% of the CX-75 is made from recycled aluminum. The car features an extruded and bonded aero-space inspired aluminum chassis. All of the body panels utilize this light weight material giving the car an overall weight of just 2976 lbs. The exterior of the car has great sweeping wheel arches and has spent a lot of time in the wind tunnel producing a low drag coefficient of just 0.32, allowing for the high speeds this car is capable of attaining. It is also equipped with a carbon fiber rear diffuser and adjustable wind vanes in the exhaust system increasing the aerodynamic properties of the vehicle.

The interior is super cutting edge but still has the Jaguar charm. The driver seats are fixed in place and the steering wheel, dash board, and pedal assembly all adjust to the driver. The CX-75 is equipped with a new driver interface using high-resolution TFT screens. The main driver screen is in house in the instrument cluster. The instrument panel was designed with cues from jet fighter planes and their current XJ saloon model. Creating a virtual 3D display set up that is as visually appealing as the outside of the panther. There are no side mirrors instead small cameras send images to screens in the dash board to keep the driver looking ahead.

The Jaguar CX-75 embodies everything a super car of the future should be, with great styling and advanced technologies. Although this is just a concept we can't but hope for a green light for this machine. One can only dream what a vehicle like this would be like to drive. I think Jaguar has a winner here and I have no doubt they would sell every one they manufacture. I think this is definitely a super car every KASANOVA could sink their teeth into. Rawr!

The Power of Designing YOUR Destiny

Let me illustrate to you a very well known example of the power of goals. In 1952, there was a research study done on the impact of goal setting on the graduating batch of students at Yale University. When asked how many of them had clearly specified and written down goals, only three percent responded.

The remaining ninety-seven percent, despite being highly intelligent and hardworking, had no road map where they would be five to ten years after graduation. Twenty years later in 1972, a follow up study was done on the class of 1952.

What they discovered was shocking; the combined income of the three percent who had clear goals was greater than the entire income of the ninety seven percent combined! Was it just a coincidence or does having clear goals really have an impact on a person's personal and financial success?

One classic example is investor Warren Buffet. Does his ability come about by chance? Absolutely not. From a very early age young Buffett was obsessed with making money and had a very clear dream of becoming the world's greatest investor. Born during the depression when his father was close to bankruptcy, Warren learnt about the value of money and the importance of being financially secure at an early age.

Even before his teens, Warren knew that he wanted to be rich. As early as elementary school and later on in high school, he would tell his classmates that he wanted to become a millionaire before the age of 35 (when he turned 35, his net worth exceeded $6 million). It was because of his goal that he constantly thought of ways to make money, while most other kids his age would be spending their parents' money.

He even memorized a book called 'A Thousand Ways to Make $1,000'. At the age of six, he started buying coke bottles at 25-cents per six-pack and selling them at 5-cents a bottle, giving him a 16% gross profit, as he would tell himself. At the age of 13, he got a job delivering newspapers and through innovative marketing and distribution strategies, he served five hundred customers a day. At the age of 11, he took all his savings and started investing in the stock market. His first investment was three shares in a company called 'City Service'. While most kids his age were reading comic books, Warren spent his time reading company annual reports.

By the age of 14, he started a pinball business and was earning $175 a week, as much as the average 25-year old was earning in 1944. Would he have taken all those actions if he never set a goal to be rich in the first place? Of course not. It was clearly because of his focus of energy and actions that allowed him to become the best in what he does.

What if you have no clue as to what business or career path to take? Well, it doesn't matter! Sometimes, just setting a specific financial goal will get your mind thinking and guiding you towards the right path.

Before George Lucas left his hometown for college, he already predicted that he would be a millionaire by the time he was thirty. However at that time, his passion and dream was to make it as a racecar driver. It was after he suffered a terrible crash that he began to change his mind about that career.

It was only after that accident that he decided that he wanted to become a filmmaker. As a result of his focus on pushing himself to be the best in anything he did, he became a millionaire by the age of 28. However, as I mentioned in chapter three, the primary driving motivation of millionaires is not the money they will make, but the passion they have in what they do.

The financial goal they set is only a means of measuring their success. However, what drove Lucas to give his all in the face of insurmountable odds to finish Star Wars was not the money he would make, but by his dream of seeing his fantasy come to life on the big screen.

Tiger Woods never really set a goal to become a millionaire. However at the age of eight, he gave an interview on TV, after winning an amateur golf tournament. During that interview, he declared that his goal was to become the world's number one golfer and that he would break all of Jack Nicklaus' records. It was that obsession that got him to focus a hundred percent of his time, energy and thoughts into his game. Fourteen years later, Woods became the world's number one at the age of 22, again not by chance, but by design.

If you were to study the life stories of the most successful people in history, you will discover that their achievements didn't happen by chance. At a certain point of time in their lives, they dared to dream about something they wanted to create. They then allowed this dream to guide their actions until they made it a reality.

THE KASANOVA DRESS CODE

It's important for every man to know himself and have his own sense of style.
What you wear is a reflection of how you feel about yourself.

A true KASANOVA has a confident sense of style...

He knows what to wear and when to wear it...and no matter what, he always looks good.

Whether it's jeans and t-shirt, suit and tie...day at the office or night out with the boys...

These styles are sure to make you look good, for any occasion.

~ DAY AT THE BEACH

For a hot day at the beach, we recommend the light linen suit option, always in white or beige. Add a light brown or white belt for added style and soft thong or criss-cross sandals by PRADA for added comfort or VIAN loafers by Donald J. Pliner. A clean matching visor cap is a great addition. The special attention to selection of your shoes shows careful consideration of the things that matter. She will love you in this look!

~ DAY AT THE OFFICE

If suiting it up is what your position calls for, then opt for a darker shade suit and play with ties with bold colors, and if a tie is not required, then stick with lighter colored shirts with the suit pant and belt.

Black or grey solid colored or pinstripe is always a sexy look. It is a more masculine style embodying power, confidence and comfort. Keep the shirts neutral; white, black, beige or light grey. Too much color is too loud in fashion. A subtle consistency and clean lines is all you need to pull this look off with ease.

~ THE CASUAL DAY-OFF

A relaxed look with a white T and jeans is always a winner for casual occasions; like meeting buddies for a cold one or visiting friends and family. The key to this look is always the shoes. Select a clean moccasin with horse bit by Gucci, stick to black, beige or white for summer get-togethers.

This look says, "I know I look good, but I'm too cool to care." A casual confidence is a powerful fashion statement in itself. The secret to this look is a great watch to compliment the ensemble. We recommend a TAG Heuer Monaco V4 Chronograph or a TAG Heuer Carrera. It takes the look to "casual upscale" in seconds.

~ ON A DATE

Classic date look has to be the collared shirt with quarter sleeve rolled up, and a jersey sweater over it, vest like. The vest is a style piece that gives your outfit a dressed up feel. Any color variations look awesome with this look. It's says, "Fun, flirty, and comfortable." Women love this look.

If you're not a fan of the layered look, the collared shirt with rolled sleeves is a perfect and simple date look, no vest needed. Pull it off with a great pair of jeans and Giorgio Brutini or Kenneth Cole New York men's running man black slip on dress shoes.

~ OUT ON THE TOWN

The sexiest look on a man is a V-neck T with a loose fitted blazer with matching suit pants or jeans with great shoes.

Contrasting colors always works, and signature black jacket, white shirt is a perfect night time look. Collared shirts are always a winner for evening outings. Pick a shirt with bold designs and a form fit. This accentuates your build, flattering for any man.

Lean & Mean Fitness Tips

By Mike Van Goethem - KASANOVA Fitness Trainer

KASANOVA is giving you some simple total body exercises to get the beach body that will get the kittens purring. I've selected a few exercises that will tone your body, work up a sweat and burn those calories you packed on during winter. Summer is here, so let's get started. These exercises are great for any fitness level, beginner or advanced and you can do them anywhere for a quick pump before you hit that pool party or a night on the town.

BODY WEIGHT SQUAT

FIRST UP IS THE BODY WEIGHT SQUAT. This exercise will build your quadriceps and give you a nice toned upper leg as well as shape and define your butt, Girls love a nice butt. You start the exercise standing erect, shoulders back, Head up and feet shoulder width apart. Next hold both your arms parallel to the floor and put a slight bend in your knees. Slowly descend, keep your arms up head straight and shoulders back. Go as low as you can (Remember to never let your knees go past your toes this will lead to injury).

Your ideal rep rate should be 3 seconds down and 1.5 seconds up do at least 15-20 reps or as long as you can stand the burn. You can do 3-4 sets of these to get your legs to start growing.

STANDARD PUSH UP

THE SECOND EXERCISE IN THIS WORK OUT IS THE STANDARD PUSH UP. This exercise works your Pectoralis or chest muscle. It can be done on your knees if you're a beginner. Get in the push up stance. Arms shoulder width apart as well as your feet. Make sure your back is straight through out the movement. Slowly lower your chest to about 2-3 inches from the ground and then back up keeping your elbows to the side. This is one rep. Again your ideal rep rate should be 3 seconds down and 1.5 seconds up. Do at least 15-20 reps or as long as you can stand the burn. You can do 3-4 sets of these to get your pecs to start growing.

SIDE PLANK

THE NEXT EXERCISE IN THE WORK OUT IS THE SIDE PLANK THIS EXERCISE IS GREAT FOR BUILDING THE OBLIQUES, the so called love muscles that girls love to see sticking out your board shorts. As in image one place your forearm on the floor and get in the T-position, don't let your mid section sink to the floor hold it firm and straight through out the movement. Now take your other hand and reach under and back as far as you can go with out losing balance then bring your arm back through and reach as far to the sky as you can. This is one rep, as before your ideal rep rate should be 3 seconds down and 1.5 seconds up. Do at least 15-20 reps or as long as you can stand the burn. You can do 3-4 sets of these. This should get your love muscles popping out your shorts. Repeat this exercise for the other side.

PLANK SITUP

THIS NEXT EXERCISE IS WHAT I LIKE TO CALL THE SUPER MAN SIT UP, when done correctly it works all of the ab muscles from the bottom to the top. Lie flat on your back with arms and feet out just above the ground. Do not touch the ground. From the start position make a strong contraction and bring your arms and feet together. At first you may not be able to touch your toes but that is the goal here. Remember to come slowly back down to the starting position. This is one rep as like before your ideal rep rate should be 3 seconds down and 1.5 seconds up. Do at least 15-20 reps or as long as you can stand the burn. You can do 3-4 sets of these and you will have wash board abs in no time.

STANDAR CRUNCH

THE NEXT EXERCISE IN THE WORK OUT IS THE STANDAR CRUNCH THIS WORKS THE ENTIRE ABDOMINAL WALL. Lay on your back, feet shoulder width apart and head up, touch your hands to the side of your head, this is for balance only. Be sure not to pull on your head with your hands. Contracting your abs to bring your back off the ground only a couple of inches will get the job done. Focus on feeling the contraction in your abs. The range of motion on this excercise is relativly short but it is very effective at activating the muscle fibers. Rep rate should be 3 seconds down and 1.5 seconds up do at least 15-20 reps or as long as you can stand the burn. You can do 3-4 sets of these and you will soon see your abs getting carved like the grand canyon.

SIDE LUNGE

THE LAST EXERCISE IN THIS WORKOUT IS THE SIDE LUNGE. From the standing position bend your one leg so your knee is just over your toes, your other leg should be extended all the way like the picture. Now just alternate from side to side keeping your head up, back straight and arms out infront of you parallel to the ground. This will be putting some more definition into your quads and your butt. Do this alternating exercise for at least 50 reps.

Slow and controlled is the way to go with this movement.

At the conclusion of your workout you should be putting a good quality protein into your body. The rule of thumb is 1.5-2 grams of protein per pound of body weight and make sure you get good quality (brown) carbohydrates into your system. This will spike your insulin levels and shuttle all the nutrients in to your blood stream and provide your muscles with what they need to grow. Drink plenty of water and in no time you will have that beach body you are after. Next issue we will be bringing you some more training tips or check out www.KASANOVAonline.com for more.

Ferrari FF

THE ORDINARY...

This month we at KASANOVA bring you the Ferrari FF, a stylish yet totally different Ferrari than anything you have seen before. It's a Ferrari GT and not just in the name tag it's a true grand touring machine. It's packed with all the power and refinement you'd expect from Ferrari with one unique difference it can hold your groceries and the family.

The Ferrari FF is Ferrari's first four wheel drive, four seat supercar hence the FF designation. It is the successor to the 612 Scaglietti and it was designed by the famous Pininfarina design house Ferrari states that the FF will deliver an extremely sporty, high-performance character with incredible versatility. The Ferrari FF is just as comfortable in the snow, speeding through the turns on a mountain pass, or dropping the little ones off at school. This machine truly does it all. The FF made its Debut at the Geneva Motor show in March and will be hitting the showrooms before you read this article.

The Ferrari FF is Ferrari's answer to the Porsche Panamera judging how well Porsche did; Ferrari's new offering should put a noticeable dent in the sales of the Panamera. Ferrari out did them self when designing the FF, powering this GT super car is a 6.2 liter V-12 engine pumping out a whopping 660 Hp at 8,000 rpm and a stomach turning 503 lbs of torque at 6,000rpm, with all this power under the hood the FF will get to 0-60 mph in a time of 3.7 seconds and reach a top speed of 208 miles per hour. Getting all the power to the wheels is Ferrari's 7speed dual clutch F1 racing gear box that changes gears at blinding speeds.

The FF stands for Four wheel drive four seater. The cabin is spacious, it can fit four full grown 6 ft tall men in it comfortably and still has room for four bags of luggage and a set of golf clubs. The four wheel drive system on the FF has been designed from scratch. This is Ferrari's first ever four wheel drive car (4RM) and it performs flawlessly in any road conditions, snow, rain, mud, race track or just driving on public roads. The system weighs less than 50% of a standard four wheel drive system all while providing a perfect weight distribution of 53% over the rear axle.

The system is also integrated with the high tech electronic dynamic controls which delivers continuous and predictive torque distribution to all four wheels. It is also fitted with the newest magnetorheological damping system. All this comes together to make the car handle and feel like an ultimate supercar. The braking power in the FF is really astonishing; it has been equipped with the latest in carbon ceramic brake system from Brembo.

The interior of the FF is nothing short of fantastic. The dash, seats and doors all wrapped in the finest super soft Italian leather. The steering wheel looks as if they just took it off of their formula one racing car. Really the driver side of the FF was inspired by their Formula one racing experiences ensuring that all the controls are placed on the steering wheel to provide maximum control to the driver and making sure the drivers hands never have to leave the controls. It has a start engine button on the steering wheel which is really cool. To relay all main driving and in car system data there are two 5" high resolution screens alongside a huge central tachometer. The GT Manettino system that has five settings to either give you maximum stability in all conditions or just to give the maximum amount of fun out of the vehicle, either way you win.

There is not too much competition in this market segment and with the Ferrari FF holding a price tag of $300,000, I think the FF is going to soar to the top of the list and remain there for a long time. This car has all the goodies and has been designed to perfection. It is a beautiful Ferrari inspired by some truly unique ideas and some day when I have a family I will be placing an order for my very own Ferrari FF.

MOST UNDERRATED ATHLETES IN SPORTS TODAY

STORY BY JACOB TAYLOR

Who's hot in 2011? Check out these heavy hitters who have flown under the radar... Until now. Keep an eye out for these players who will have a big impact within the next year.

With so many athletes in professional sports today, it's easy to go under appreciated or overlooked. These are the players that today, don't get the credit they deserve and who really should be given more attention. This is not a list of no-namers, just a list of the most underrated athletes in America.

10. TIM DUNCAN (FORWARD, SAN ANTONIO SPURS)

As the most accomplished athlete on our list and perhaps the greatest power forward to ever step onto the hardwood, Tim Duncan still doesn't get any love. He's made the All-Star team thirteen times, yet still he's not even in the conversation of the all-time greats. Seen now as the over-the-hill leader on an aging Spurs roster that is past its prime, the four-time NBA champ and two-time MVP should never have been overlooked...and neither should his chances of bringing San Antonio back to the promise land for a fifth time.

9. KYLE ORTON (QUARTERBACK, DENVER BRONCOS)

Although the Broncos struggled through the 2010 season with an abysmal 4-12 record, finishing dead last in the AFC West, it wasn't due to the quarterback. A throw in from the Bears to the Broncos in a trade for Jay Cutler in 2009, Orton has gone on to out throw Cutler in yards and QB rating over the past two years. He's had to deal with a prima donna wide receiver Brandon Marshall, and has been over shadowed in Denver by Tim Tebow, who some claim might give Orton a run for his money for the starting job. Of course, Orton's huge arm will have something to say about that.

8. HEATH BELL (CLOSER, SAN DIEGO PADRES)

After the Padres lost their longtime hall of fame closer Trevor Hoffman, San Diegans never thought they'd be able to replace him. Not only has Bell gone on to step right into the closer's role in SD, he's gone on to become one of the most solid finishers in the game. If he was in a bigger market, say New York or Boston, the baseball media might be claiming he's the second cometh of Dennis Eckersley or the Goose.

7. DUSTIN BROWN (WING, LOS ANGELES KINGS)

It's easy to claim that this guy is an underrated athlete because almost all hockey players are unknown, unrecognized and completely off the radar in American sports today. Going into his eighth season with Los Angeles, Kings captain Dustin Brown, has scored over 20 goals and racked up over 50 points in each of the last 4 years, and is one of the main reasons for the Kings most recent playoff birth. He also led the US to an Olympic Silver medal in 2010. Maybe we would have paid him more attention if he brought back the gold.

6. MARC GASOL (CENTER, MEMPHIS GRIZZLIES)

Another athlete that was a trade throw-in. When his more famous brother, Pau, was traded from Memphis to the Lakers, the Grizzlies got the rights to Marc in return. It might be tough to claim that Marc would be a better fit than Pau at this point in their careers, but with the weakness of the Lakers down low in the playoffs, he might have been the powerhouse rebounder and blocker that the Lakers had been looking for since Shaq was run out of town.

5. ADRIAN GONZALEZ (FIRST BASE, BOSTON RED SOX)

A perennial all-star that has just recently gotten some exposure in the Red Sox Nation since leaving the offensive wasteland that is the San Diego Padres. Adrian has to be happy to get away from Southern California and into an organization that can finally give him the national recognition that could help lead him into the Hall of Fame down the road.

4. KEVIN LOVE (FORWARD, MINNESOTA TIMBERWOLVES)

How can a double-double machine like Kevin Love ever fly under the radar? Well, when you play for the lackluster Timberwolves, that's how. Love led the league in rebounding in 2010 with over 15 a game and averaged over 20 points per night, all while shooting over 40% from behind the arc as a big man. This past year he was named as an alternate to the NBA All-Star game, but still is not talked about as one of the elite forwards in the game today.

3. ADAM DUNN (FIRST BASE, CHICAGO WHITE SOX)

Adam Dunn might be off to a slow start in 2011, but that's not the norm for this big-bat wielding first baseman. Dunn has averaged about 40 home runs a year in his 12 seasons in the bigs, going long once every 14 at-bats. With that said, he still has only been named to the all-star team once in his career.

2. LAMAR ODOM (FORWARD, LOS ANGELES LAKERS)

Even though he's a two-time champ with the Los Angeles Lakers, Odom has never received the love in basketball circles that he surely deserves. He is the most underrated athlete in the NBA today coming off the Lakers bench as a true triple threat player that can step into any position. At 6'11 he can dribble and shoot like a guard, has the strength down low to battle for rebounds, and when he's on his game he's impossible for anyone to match up against. Recently Odom has started to get some more respect from the league and the media, coming off one of his best seasons in LA where he received the NBA Sixth Man of the Year award. Of course, his recent exposure might be due to the fact that he married a Kardashian and now co-stars weekly in his own reality show named "Khole and Lamar." With that aside, next year the Lakers might be looking to dismantle the team that was bounced from the playoffs in four straight games by Dallas, but they shouldn't overlook the intangibles that Odom can bring back to LA.

1. DONOVAN MCNABB (QUARTERBACK, WASHINGTON REDSKINS)

As a proven success with the Eagles and a future Hall of Famer, Donovan McNabb should have never been taken for granted in his career, but time and time again he's given the shaft by his contemporaries. While in Philadelphia he led the Eagles to four straight NFC championship games, before he was run out of town by bad press and cocky wide receivers. After his departure he wound up in the disaster known as the Washington Redskins, stuck on a team with few offensive options and a father-son coaching tandem that want nothing to do with him. It's insane to think that his starting job might be in jeopardy, but you never know what decisions are going to come out of a Washington front office. If McNabb is bounced out yet again, he might just be the extra piece one team needs to make a deep run at a Super Bowl next season.

“Why don’t I just F&**ing invent it?”

The HEAD of Business

with Todd Greene

by Chelsea Dillon-Miller

Head smarts give Todd Greene the cutting edge, leveraging his multi-million dollar company, HeadBlade, into a worldwide phenomenon.

How does the self-made business man really get started? Listen up, it's all in the accidental-millionaire lifestyle of Todd Greene. Per Todd, "Necessity is the mother of invention."

A self-proclaimed Jewish boy from Augusta, Maine, Todd has been a lifelong business man. The thing that separates him from the rest? He invented the HeadBlade, a revolutionary, ergonomic design in men's grooming and by far the quickest, most effective way to shave your head.

So far, he's made his millions. He continues to run his company, now in its 12th year, as the President and Founder, just as he's run it since day one. He'll be damned if retirement comes anytime soon. Life's too short and he has a lot of head shaving to do.

In the early 90's Todd was, as many men experience, beginning to lose his hair. Annoyed with the common remedies of the time (Rogaine, hair transplant, even toupee recommendations from nosy family members), Todd realized there was a better way.

Head shaving now is a sexy, masculine style. Arguably because of Todd. Ten years ago, even he admits, sporting a shaved head had its stigmas.

He'd been shaving his head bald for two years and was frustrated with the result, which was, if he shaved at night, a five o'clock shadow by the following day. He noticed the typical razors did not, in fact, allow men to "shave-by-feel" on all sides of their heads.

Todd was savvy enough to know Gillette and Schick had a monopoly on the market. He also noticed that their revenues, including the men's and women's market, were in the hundreds of millions. Who doesn't shave? If it's not your head, it's definitely your legs. If not the legs, perhaps your unmentionables? Everyone shaves. One thing or another.

In Todd's words, "Huge companies base billions on the fact that everyone either shaves, at the very least, their face or legs."

Todd knew there was a market. He knew HE was the market. Suddenly, he tapped in. Or should we say "shaved" in? He was rubbing his hands over his beautiful, shaved cerebral skull when he had THE Eureka moment.

"Why don't I just F&ing invent it?" he said to himself. And, that was that.

Todd went into the initial design phase. How does one engineer, manufacture, market, and sell a one-of-a-kind design? He began with the research.

Todd knew that the general razor design just didn't work. In his words, "the handle works against you and you can't see the back of your head. Being a head shaver, I knew a shave-by-feel method would work the best." He also studied the statistics, finding that nearly half of men experience hair loss during their lifetime.

This sets Todd up with an extremely generous marketing base and being one of his own, he went from there.

Having a degree from Bowdoin College, and experience in numerous fields- web content production and graphic design (initially working on ESPN's original website), business development, product design/concept and manufacturing, Todd knew he had something unique to offer.

He began by planning and making models. First, on paper, then out of clay. His prototypes helped this visionary prove that he had something real. His initial investments were from his own savings, plus money from his father and two friends. From there he learned the meaning of a patent.

"Although, the real invention was my idea. Unless you patent it, it's worthless. Someone could patent something similar the next day and you're out of business."

He was, as he notes, "ahead of the head shaving curve". Hair club for men was my father's generation and I knew it. My generation was looking for something appealing and efficient." Head shaving was becoming a style, and Todd intended to capitalize on it with his excellent and ergonomic design.

Featured KASANOVA Todd Greene

He knew he could empower men to embrace not only their new style, but also a lifestyle.

Being part of the e-generation, Todd named his invention "Head-Blade" and in 1999 sold it as an e-commerce product on his self-designed website, www.headblade.com. He remembers the two initial years of working straight out of his apartment, of 1-800 numbers ringing straight to his room, and of selling HeadBlades straight out of his backpack.

Today, however, with an annual revenue totaling $9 million, those seem like the good old days.

In the good ol' days, people began to take notice. However, working out of home had its disadvantages. When asked about his product's retail distribution by an editor for inclusion in their magazine before online purchasing was widely used, Greene had to approach a retailer in order to be included in the magazine. And, that he did.

Fred Segal's in Los Angeles began to carry his product and from there, magazines could cite not only his website but also the retailer to purchase his product. It was a keen and shrewd marketing move. He was saving on rent for a retail store AND garnering extensive marketing, all at the same time. Todd has generational vision, then and now, which is the key to this CEO. At the time, the only way to purchase a HeadBlade was from Todd directly, through his company's website or phone system, or at Fred Segal's. Now, the HeadBlade is carried in over 15,000 stores in more than 25 different countries, as well as Todd's HeadBlade company directly. Currently, over one million HeadBlades have been sold.

Late in 1999, however, the ball was still rolling. A little magazine named TIME called up HeadBlade's 1-800 number and asked a couple questions. They couldn't give any details, but they did tell him, "It was good news." A couple months later, HeadBlade was featured in TIME magazine as one of the "Ten Best Designs of 2000." Later, in 2005, HeadBlade was also accessioned as part of the permanent collection of MoMA, The Museum of Modern Art, under the Architecture and Design department. HeadBlade had been previously featured in a temporary exhibition in 2004 called, "Humble Masterpieces" at MoMA, Queens as well as independently featured in dozens of books, television shows, and magazines. Todd has personally received a handful of design awards. He was featured as one of GQ magazine's 100 Most Powerful Bald Men in America and is also a guest blogger, for the Huffington Post. He has been asked to lecture at the Pasadena Art Center of Design, USC, and Pepperdine's University Graziadio School of Business and Management on behalf of his business and industrial design ventures.

Psychologically speaking, Todd notes that there is a sense of commitment and action behind the conceptual design of HeadBlade. "I'm going bald is passive. I am shaving my head is affirmative; meaning action, aggression, and masculinity. It's a way for men to own their appearance and encourage confidence in it."

And own it, they do. Todd's list of head shavers is the only database of its type in the world. He can't release the specific number within his contact list, but with an international audience and sales totaling in the millions, we can assume it's huge. HeadBladers include celebrities and athletes alike: Howie Mandel, NBA Star Al Harrington, MMA fighters Chuck Liddell, Mark "The Shark" Miller, Benji Radach, Shane Carwin, and Bas Rutten, as well as the major league baseball player also named Todd Greene, just to name a few out of the dozens.

Todd Greene & Rampage Jackson

Frank Trigg, Tony Freeman and Todd Greene

His notoriety as an "accidental entrepreneur" has reached world-wide acclaim and continues to grow. He remembers the days of childhood when he enjoyed carving miniatures out of balsa wood, growing up with a passion for cars and design. He knew one day he would apply all of it.

To Todd, it was just a matter of when and what. When he found "it," he continued to nurture his soul, as well as his business. Truth is, a little education never hurt a handshake. A lifelong fan of arts and literature, his favorites include Paulo Coelho's The Alchemist and all of Ayn Rand's novels. Todd notes he understood capitalism better after reading Rand's novels, full of inspiration, passion, and philosophies for him. His interview is stacked with literary references and it's gathered that such a worldly mind helps drive him as a CEO. Relate-ability is everything in Todd's world.

His best business advice brings him back to the days when people didn't "get" his invention. He pushed through regardless and recommends others do the same. "When you start something, you have a vision. People who critique it are essentially critiquing a work-in-progress. Don't get discouraged. Bring your vision to fruition."

He quotes Coelho when referencing the short story 'Dream'.

"Three men are laboring in a field of rocks. When asked what they are doing each replies differently. The first says, 'I am breaking rocks.' The second says, 'I am making money.' The third says, 'I am building a cathedral.' I say it's all in your perspective."

When asked how it feels to be the featured Kasanova, he responds, "It's a great honor. I was able to stay close to my original vision and came to market with a product that was well received by the intended target demographic. A great by-product by persevering has been the acknowledgement and accolades from other facets of business who appreciate the HeadBlade. The awards, the press, this interview, it's all been amazing. Twelve years ago, while baking prototypes in my oven, if you had told me I'd be interviewed by a major men's magazine, I may have laughed and said, "Yes! One day, but today I cook razors!" In the back of my mind I would think, "I'll believe it when I see it."

This self-made millionaire- fascinated with Picasso, Magritte, the absurd, ironic, beautiful and challenging- Mr. Todd Greene is, at the end of the day, content in laboring away for a cathedral.

Of his design, no doubt.

GET TO THE NITTY GRITTY - ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS EVERY MAN WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR KASANOVA,

I REALLY WANT TO BE A ROCKSTAR IN THE BEDROOM AND GIVE THE BEST ORAL SEX A WOMAN HAS EVER HAD. TIPS PLEASE...

SIGNED, EAGER TO PLEASE

Dear Eager to Please,

Oral sex is a very important part of satisfying sex for both men and women. No doubt you'll agree an amazing Bj can really blow your socks off. The same goes for women. They absolutely love a man who is not afraid to go down on her and who knows what moves to make when playing with her little kitten.

When performing oral sex on a woman you always want to take your time and start slowly. This will give the act a lot more sensuality and will heighten her sensitivity to your tongue touches.

Any licking, gentle sucking or all-around moisture from the mouth to the vaginal entrance, the labia (lips) or the clitoris will surely make you popular with your sex Kitten.

Women like it when a man takes the time to appreciate her and her body. What she won't like is an overachiever who jumps right in with an aggressive tongue. Pretend that her entire vagina is an ice-cream cone with your favorite flavor; if you don't like ice cream, we're sure you can still appreciate the metaphor. Use your tongue to lick her vagina from its entrance up to the clitoris. Remember to chill out and relax; enjoy yourself and don't get tense.

Move your tongue freely from her inner lips to her outer labia on one side. Once you've done that, draw her lips into your mouth and massage them with your tongue. And since the other side will probably get jealous, move on to the other side afterward. Spending some time gently sucking her clit and lips will get her close to the big-O. Keep going...

To score major points, caress and lightly squeeze one of her breasts at the same time. The dual stimulation of both of her erogenous zones will make her orgasm in no time. And you'll be the cool KASANOVA who just made her cum. Gotta love makin' it happen!

DEAR KASANOVA,

WHY DO WOMAN WANT YOU TO TAKE CARE OF THEM...WORK TO SUPPORT THEM, THEN COMPLAIN WHEN YOU WORK TOO MUCH? I DON'T GET IT? I FEEL LIKE NO MATTER WHAT I DO, IT'S NEVER GOOD ENOUGH.

SIGNED, OVER WORKED AND UNDER APPRECIATED

Dear Over Worked and Under Appreciated,

So your woman expects the best of everything, right? She wants dinners, vacations, gifts...you name it, she wants it. And she expects her ever doting man of her dreams, a.k.a YOU to give it to her. The dilemma here is that these things can get expensive, especially on a recessionary budget. So, you're working overtime, and spending less and less time, with her. Hence the problem.

You see, a woman, wants you to make the time you do spend with her count. If you are working more often to be able to support the lifestyle she expects, you have to explain to her in an intimate conversation, perhaps, after sex, when she's in your arms, and engulfed her vulnerability to your masculinity tell her that she needs to be more understanding of how hard you are working to make sure you have a wonderful life together. She just wants to know, that you care about how she is feeling and that you love her. Let her know that the things you do, you're doing for her and to support the lifestyle that, together, you both want to share. Kiss her forehead...hold her tight. And she should be reassured...and when you're working late hours, don't forget to call her just to tell her you love her, or just to say Hi. It's the little things that count to a woman. You should see a difference in how she deals with you regarding your working hours. Good Luck!

DEAR KASANOVA,

HOW DO I PLAY IT COOL WITH A GIRL I'M REALLY INTO?

SIGNED, IN LOVE

Dear In Love,

That's great you've found a girl worthy of your affections.

The key is making sure the feelings are mutual and showing her your feelings over time, with a series of actions that make her feel special and cared for. You definitely don't want to come on too strong or confess your undying love for her too soon. I know it's tough, but if you do, she'll think you're desperate or clingy, and she won't be into that. Women like men to have confidence and a cool, calm collected attitude about most things, including their loving feelings. You can tell her how you feel, by being direct, "I really like you," goes along way.

If you're falling for her, you want to wait at least 6 months before you spill the beans, and simply, "I love spending time with you, I'm here for you, and I love you," works. That way she knows your feelings are real and based on the real relationship that has developed, and not on lust and attraction alone. This can freak girls out.

Spending a lot of time with her will only enhance the relationship and strengthen any bond you do have. Being vulnerable is a good thing...It means your heart is open to experience love and care for someone else on a deeper level. So relax about it...let the relationship continue to grow. Don't bull rush her...if it's going to work out...Let it, naturally.

fade. If HOT, to you, means a great sexual partner. You'd be surprised at how many women are amazing lovers, regardless of how they look.

Here are your key tips to success with women:

1. Have confidence in the emotional assets that you have to offer a woman
2. Learn to see the beauty in all women, and you will find more and more of them attractive
3. Approach any woman you are attracted to: Some will engage you to determine further compatibility; others will walk away with no interest. DO NOT take this personally. The more women you approach, the greater your chance of finding a woman that you will have a connection with. It's that simple.

The secret to success with women is to believe you will find one and to start looking for her, from the right place inside you, from your heart.

DEAR KASANOVA,

WHEN I'M ON A DATE WITH A GIRL SOMETIMES I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO TALK ABOUT. HOW DO I KEEP IT INTERESTING?!

SIGNED, GREAT DATER

Dear Great Dater,

The rules of conversation on a date are pretty simple.

Stay away from the usual boring topics like work, school, family, or the weather. The first few dates is the time to get to know each other. To get and keep her interested, ask her about herself, her past and/or future.

Questions like, "So what were your childhood dreams," or "Where do you see yourself in 5 years." She will love that you care enough to know the details about her inner thoughts. It makes the date really personal. Ask fun date questions too, like, "If you could pack your bag right now for a week's vacation where would you go and why?"...Don't be afraid to be playful with your questions. "If you could change places with one person in the entire world who would it be and why?" She will like your playful side.

Talking about anything new and exciting will keep the conversations interesting and she will have to keep guessing what you'll come up with next. You'll both be in for a great date with these simple tips. Have fun!

DEAR KASANOVA,

I REALLY LOVE HER. HOW DO I MAKE MY LONG DISTANCE RELATIONSHIP WORK?

SIGNED, LONGING

Dear Longing,

Long distance relationships can be tough to get through, but the reward of standing the test of time can truly be great and can make the future bond between you even stronger.

The key is constant communication...Daily, if possible. Just because you can't see each other, doesn't mean you still can't play an active role in each other's daily lives. If daily is not an option, then every other day or every two days, the more communication the better, and in all forms; calls, texts, emails or mailed letters, which can be very romantic.

You know a long distance relationship is weakening when you both stop communicating as often as possible. This can cause breakdown in trust due to non-responsiveness. Not a good thing. You both also have to remain positive and focus on the time you will be able to be together.

Discussing where you want the relationship to grow to, will help get you through tough times that don't allow you to be together. Remember, sometimes the best things in life are worth fighting for. Hang in there!

DEAR KASANOVA,

HOW CAN I TELL IF A GIRL IS REALLY INTO ME?

SIGNED, WONDERING

Dear Wondering,

If a girl likes you, she will generally take your calls, answer your texts, spend time with you, flirt with you, and definitely sleep with you. But the real question you should be asking yourself and focusing on, is whether or not you like her. This will shift your wandering concern into a position of assertive personal power. If you are worrying about what she thinks or feels all the time, then that's a problem. Just be yourself and decide if you even really like her. Then just go with it if you do!

DEAR KASANOVA,

I AM SICK OF MY LIFE. I'VE TRIED EVERYTHING TO FIX MYSELF, MAKE MYSELF MORE ATTRACTIVE...LISTENED TO ALL OF PLAYBOY'S ADVICE....AND I STILL CAN'T GET A HOT GIRL TO BE MY GIRLFRIEND.

SIGNED, IN NEED

Dear In Need,

The key to success with woman is simple. First you have to know with confidence that you will find a great looking woman that you are exceptionally attracted to that you will have a great relationship with. Know that. Believe that. This confidence will subconsciously make you more attractive to the opposite sex.

Also, if you are overweight, vigorous exercise and commitment to healthy diet will improve your physical appearance, overall health and attractiveness. If you are rude or socially unacceptable, then you need to change your behavior and become more gentlemanly with respect and a calm confidence. Women love this, in any man.

Your secret to success with women is to see the beauty in all women. All shapes, sizes, colors and creeds. If you begin to see the unique beauty about every woman, you will start to see an increase in the number of women you are attracted to. You also need to define HOT. If you are only looking at the shell of a woman, you might be disappointed down the road. Looks

Dear Future Mr. or Mrs. President,

Yours will be a formidable task, but I think there's hope for America. Do you? Aren't we supposed to be living a great dream of freedom and economic prosperity? Aren't we all supposed to be happy and excited about everyday here?

Ask around, not the common response is it? Maybe because all we hear is negative news that floods us daily, and from every angle. But this is America, and we're not buying it. This is the land of KASANOVA, three day weekends, great food, nice homes, fast cars and beautiful girls, where anything is possible. Have we experienced our share of challenges over the past few years? Of course, but we know that this is the one place on earth where you can turn it around...America has always been that place. We've always been the model for justice and prosperity around the world. That's why people around the world come here to give it their best shot--because this is still the best place to do it. To the workers around the world, the job is the ticket to a home, and the home is the ticket to retirement and hopefully happiness.

In fact, our government and the larger global economy have thrived on the rising value of our homes, and our collective ability to make our mortgage payments. The world's economy has been based on American Equity, and the best thing about American Equity is that we all have a chance to have a piece of it, and pass it down to our families.

Any leader who wants to affect change in America or to lead the masses could, if they would only listen to our needs, and focus our innovative power and grit on real solutions. We know we can do it, why don't you? Work on confirming what we already believe.

In America, all we want is our elected representatives to share our hopes and defend us against tyranny and fraud, both at home and abroad. We know that the government is not responsible for our retirement or our happiness; but please, stop threatening them and start helping us with a problem that we didn't create and that we're willing to fix!

A simple 8% per year appreciation rate would double our investment every 12.5 years. That means an average $300,000 home would be worth over $2 million dollars in the next 50 years. Ask your grandma how much she paid for her house 50 years ago? True or False?

The system has worked pretty well so far, so well, that somehow everyone is overlooking the fact that the US residential real estate market currently has 7 trillion dollars in equity. That's our American Equity, and we built it through hard work and great ideas. We managed to have a good time doing it, too. Even this recent real estate contraction, as severe as it has been, was caused by fear based propaganda and Wall Street fraud, and not true mortgage defaults.

We have a unique political window right now. This window, I fear, will be closed forever if we don't pass through it. What if our leaders came out with a platform and home loan programs that said they believed in America's residential real estate? Back it up by a message that unified both parties around the idea that if you work hard you can have a good retirement.

What if there was a way to fix American Equity, by incenting us to buy American products and environmentally green household appliances, maybe educate our children about credit and real estate investment and definitely confirm that the American Dream of home ownership and consistent appreciation is not a bubble that can burst. Pat us on the back for working hard and improving our house. Take our fear and stress for our future away by acknowledging our hard work and let us create a positive, financially stress free environment to raise our children. Let us show our children that our democracy works, that our free market American Dream has room for their aspirations. What if we budgeted correctly for a rainy day and the government started doing the same?

How about coaching us to invest in American products that increase the value of our home? Coach us to buy products that protect the environment. We could shrink the trade deficit while raising domestic wages and our ability to afford the American Dream. Wouldn't it be neat if we started a positive cycle of investing in our homes, increasing our savings, buying domestically produced green products that were tax deductible, and reducing our expenditures on depreciating foreign consumer goods? We could create our own jobs and empower our small businesses. If our leaders decided to show us that we could retire by going to work, paying our bills on time, and believing in our American Dream, we might just listen. If we invested in our homes, our wages might rise and maybe we could afford health care and a savings account. Maybe we would tolerate our bosses more.

Let's innovate like we're American. The rest of the world believes in what we can do...how did we forget it?

You may ask if anyone cares? We do! That's the point. This is America. We get to invent, design, plan and execute whatever profitable program we can dream up, and it's worked pretty well. Just look at the Fortune 100 companies that started in somebody's garage. All we want is to believe in our American Dream...we know it's still here.

Show us you are betting on American Equity! Show us you are betting on our efforts. We don't have any other way to have a decent life and retirement.

I have hope for America. We have to. I think you should as well.

I think there's hope for America. Do you?

-Chris Nelson

Straight from the Ladies

by Chelsea Dillon-Miller

Single, Committed, and Married Women alike speak up and give Kasanova the Konfidential low-down on what they NEED and LOVE in the bedroom.

Is the sex getting old or do you just want to impress a special someone? Get some ideas, tips and lessons by hearing it straight from the ladies. Kasanova gets the exclusive from REAL single, partnered, or married women.

What do women really want? Great Sex. Here's how they want it.

SEX Straight from the Ladies Konfidentials

Kinsey, 32, Paralegal

This decisive woman is tough in the boardroom and when she gets home, she wants to play...with her man only.

"I need sex everyday and I'm not afraid to say it. When I wake up in the morning and my man is hard, that's the only thing I want. I love to kiss his stomach and draw out the sex. It helps make it last longer. Night time, morning, whenever. If I'm not having sex weekly, it's not working for me."

The Lesson: Ask your girl what she wants. She may just need you to initiate.

Tracy, 29, Teacher

Don't let this cute girl fool you. She's in a committed relationship, wears glasses, and acts coy. But, the truth is, she loves an affirmative man...who she can trust.

"I love it when my boyfriend acts super manly. I like it when he takes off his belt and pants slowly, teasing me. If I want it rough one night, that's okay too. Since we're committed, we have trust. He can hold my arms down and thrust into me. It turns me on to know that we can trust each other enough to try different things. If he ever wants to try the back door, I'm ready. I'll try anything with him because we love each other and he treats me well. He's earned it and I want it! But, only for him."

The Lesson: Things aren't always as they seem. Be creative to please your woman.

Amanda, 27, Interior Designer

She's a single girl making her own rules. She's independent and owning it. What's her secret?

"I teach men what I want. If they can't listen and learn in bed, I kick them to the curb. At my age, with a killer body, I can have who I want. I don't have to wait for a man to please me. I can please myself. He better watch and learn quick. I'm always telling men to be more gentle. Sometimes they pound you too hard. Kiss my downstairs lady softly. Insert yourself slowly. Ride me gently. It feels good to go slow too. I'll tell you what I want. And you better adapt."

The Lesson: Every woman is different. Make sure you communicate.

Andrea, 35, Art Curator

She's a single woman and not looking to commit, but instead, connect.

"I need a glass of wine, or two, before sex. It helps loosen me up. But, when guys try to get me drunk, it's NOT sexy. We can have fun and be alert at the same time. I don't need to be wasted to have good sex. I want to remember it. And, remember it being good. Touch every part of me. Don't just f%^ me. Romance me."

The Lesson: Most women need to be turned on emotionally and physically.

Simone, 25, Marketing Director

She's married AND happy. What's the key?

"My husband puts me on top of him. He lubes me up and we play with toys. Then, with me on top, he lifts my body up and down. I love feeling this throbbing member and letting him go at his own rhythm. It feels good between my legs. It feels good everywhere."

The Lesson: For women, marriage is sexy.

Diane, 50, CEO

Married 25 years and remembering when.

"My husband and I were married young. Half way through I realized it was a different time. We started swinging with other couples and it was never better. Experiencing someone else's body made me realize just how much I wanted his. I loved being with other women, too. I'd never seem him harder than when I was kissing another female. The sex has been good since. It's like we let each other off the hook. We have open perspectives. But he respects me and our marriage enough to know who makes the rules. Me. When I'm happy, he's happy. He knows to keep it that way."

The Lesson: Every relationship is different. Know and facilitate yours.

Marissa, 45, Computer Engineer

She's on her second marriage, and loving it.

"My first husband just couldn't do it for me. We didn't talk about sex. My life partner and husband now is amazing. We're just older and we can communicate better. We role play. I'm his fantasy girl, 20-years younger, whatever. He's Russell Crowe in Gladiator for me. It doesn't matter who the imaginary person is. It matters that we're doing it together. It keeps it hot for both of us, and, even sometimes makes us laugh which is sexy too."

The Lesson: Women are willing to try what you're willing to talk about.

Okay Kasanova. We've given you the actual advice from "girl talk" and "girl's night out." This is the exclusive from the sexexecutives.

Now get down to business and make it work for you and yours.

AVENTADOR

LP700-4

KASANOVA brings to you in this issue the brand new 2011 Lamborghini Aventador LP700-4 the newest beast coming from the Italian auto house. The Aventador is the successor to the Murcielago but it feels more like a hostile corporate takeover becoming Lamborghini's newest corporate center piece. The new styling and mechanical underpinnings make this the fastest and lightest Lamborghini to date. The LP stands for longitudinal posterior describing the layout of the vehicle. The 700 stands for the 700 horse power the car produces from its 60 degree 6.5 liter naturally aspirated, direct injection V-12 that features variable valve timing, four individual throttle bodies and a dry sump lubricating system. With a compression of 11.8/1 and 509 lbs/ torque this car is ferocious to say the least. The 4 stands for the new Haldex 4WD electronically controlled system.

The dry weight of the Aventador is 3472 lbs. A newly designed center monocoque chassis made from light weight carbon fiber weighing 505lbs (first time for Lamborghini) helped shave considerable weight from the Murcielago's monocoque chassis. It also made it 70% stiffer. The power to weight ratio is a very impressive 4.96 lbs/hp giving it a zero to 0-62mph time of 2.9 seconds with a top speed of 217 miles per hour. With all that power we should thank the engineers for using carbon ceramic brakes and huge Brembo calipers to bring the Aventador to a stop in neck braking time. The American version will get a slightly detuned version with 691 horse power; still nothing to cry about though.

The body work on the Aventador is absolutely breathtaking with its low aggressive stance and more angles than a stealth bomber, it looks like it was built to do battle and that it does. Lamborghini took a new perspective when designing this car; they wanted it to be fast but also the best handling Lamborghini ever. It has F-1 style double wish-bone suspension set up giving it superb handling through the corners. Lamborghini also introduces a new ISR 7 speed single clutched gear box with super fast changes (50 milliseconds). It is accompanied by steering wheel mounted paddle shifters.

The interior is what you would expect, lots of carbon fiber and everything is wrapped in your choice of leathers. Really good racing seats with lots of lumbar support. The layout on the dash is far more user friendly than its predecessor and everything is easy to get to. You also sit in a perfectly positioned driver seat that gives you a straight line to the pedals.

One really cool addition is the fully digitized instrument cluster that really makes you feel like you're in a futuristic super car, with a huge center mounted TFT LCD screen. I also like the toggle switch over the ignition starter button, which gives you the impression you're starting a jet fighter. When you hear the engine come to life it sends an electrifying sensation throughout your body, that is almost indescribable. A virtual symphony awakens and you know if you put your foot down you will be pushed against the seat with raw power. Something you have to feel to believe.

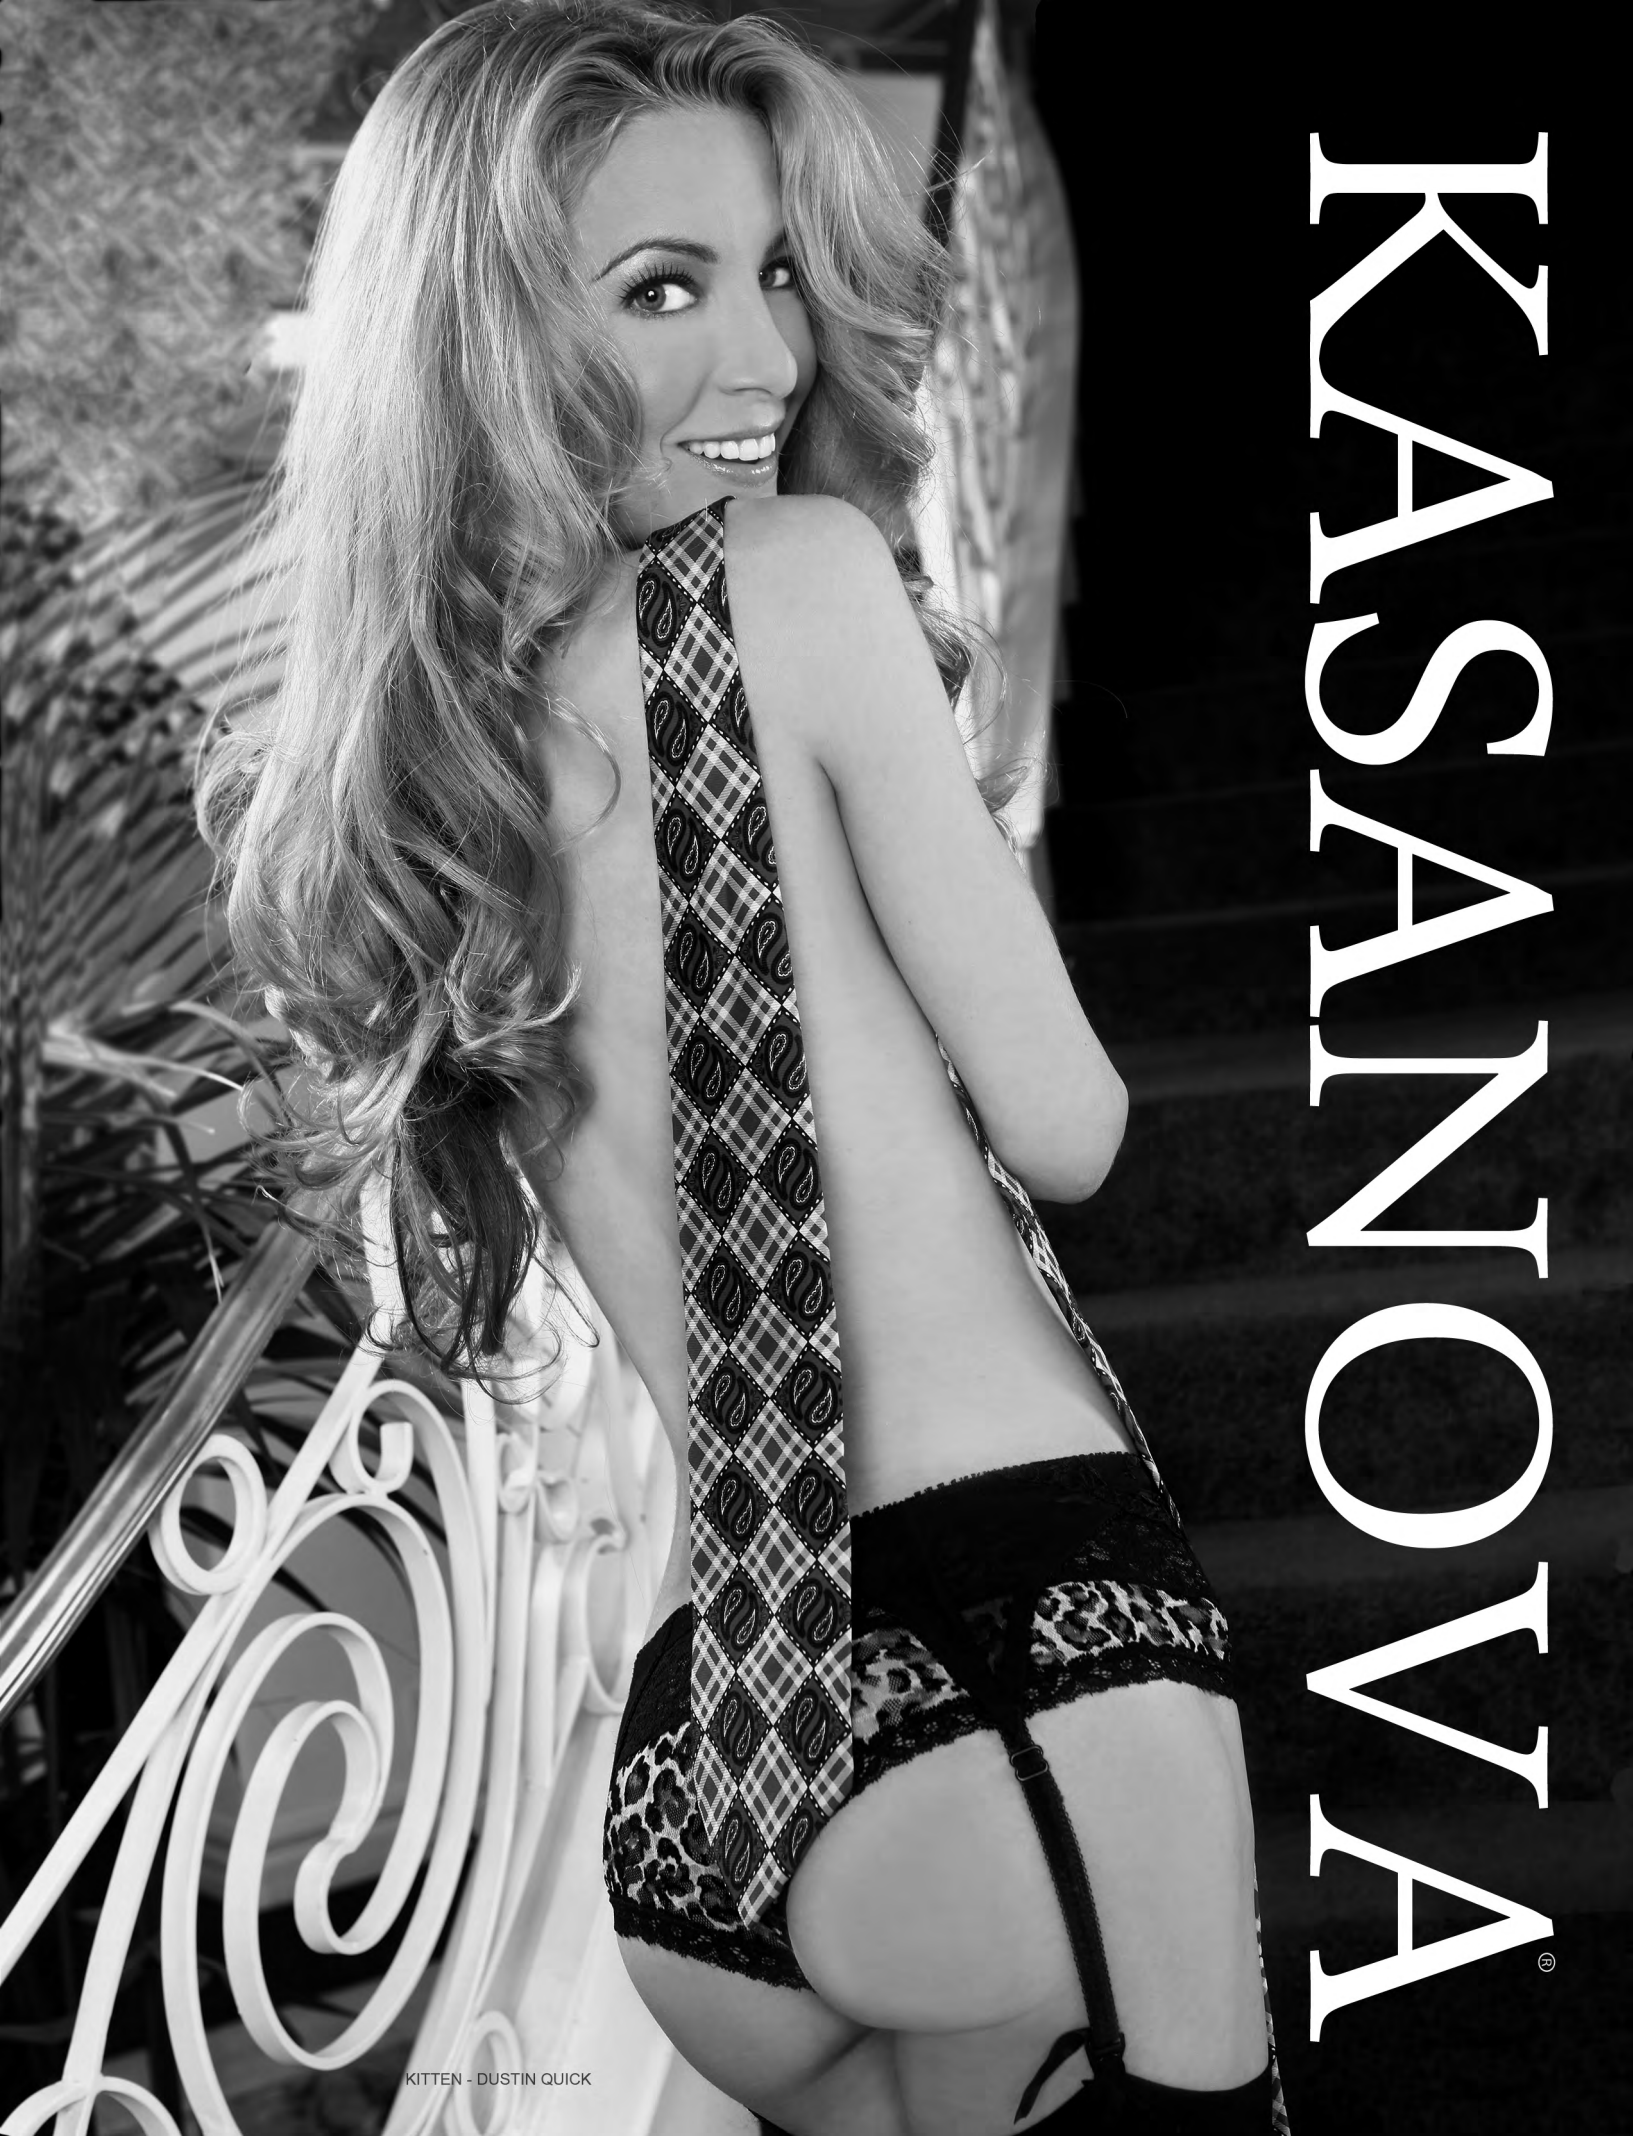

Lamborghini got the name Aventador for a bull that fought in 1993 Saragossa Arena, earning the 'Trofeo de la Pena La Madronera'. The bull was particularly courageous in battle. I think Lamborghini has been able to channel that bull's heart and soul in to the new Aventador. There are only going to be 750 a year built and the first 18 month supply has already been snapped up by eager matadors. With a price tag of only $393,695 for this amazing machine, I would suggest you get your orders in sooner than later.
