BMW i8

THE MOST PROGRESSIVE SPORTSCAR

PHOTOS PROVIDED BY BMW | STORY BY TERENCE MADDISON

BMW i8 BORN ELECTRIC

KASANOVA brings to you the BMW i8 concept car with its futuristic spaceship good looks and it's even more impressive i drive technology which is leading the way in the plug in Hybrid motorcars of the world. The i8 is the next step in the BMW vision EfficientDynamic Concept, and it doesn't disappoint. It is hailed as the most innovative and progressively forward vehicle of its time. The i8 Concept vehicle makes a cameo in the New film In Time in theatres now.

The i8 combines the electrical i-Drive of the i3 concept (modified of course) fitted over the front axle with a high performance three cylinder turbo charged gas combustion engine producing 220hp and 221 Lb-ft torque, 0 to 62 mph times of just under 5 seconds with both propulsion systems working together, giving the i8 the performance of a sports car and the fuel efficiency of a smart car. The i8 delivers average fuel economy of 93 miles per gallon, when both power sources are working together and 20 miles on just electric.

The lifeDrive architecture has been scrutinized to provide sports car handling and unrivaled performance. The front axle module is connected to the combustion engine on the rear axle via the energy tunnel which houses the high voltage lithium batteries giving the car its low center of gravity and its perfect 50-50 weight distribution.

The body design of the i8 Concept embodies the perfect synthesis of technology and aesthetic appeal. Beautiful sweeping lines and flat silhouette making the i8 look as if it's going 200mph even when it is standing still. BMW incorporated the shiny metallic body panels and the black center monocoque of the i8 beautifully. I also like the way the i8 portrays an open to the world perspective with the fully see through occupant cabin. The overall design is super futuristic with short overhangs front and rear rounding out the overall sportiness of the i8 concept. All the design cues hide the fact that the i8 is a 2+2 can seat 4 quite comfortably for the long road trips.

In the interior you are sure to be amazed the i8 transports the driver to another world with all of its electronic components enough to make Captain Kirk green with envy. The transparent surfaces of the i8 Concept give the appearance of merging together as one. The colors of the interior are laid out in three separate sections just like in the i3 concept. The porcelain white support structure, black technical and Mocha brown leather finish the interior touches. The interior is heavily focused on driver position and functionality. Driver relevant functions such as gear shift, start button and hand brake are all arranged around the center console. The coolest part about the i8 Concept interior is the 2 3-d digital displays one located in the center of the dash board and the other is used for the instrument cluster. This car feeds technical data from the car to the driver displayed in a three dimensional high resolution format. Really cool looking. Some of the information shared is the two drive systems which appear in as two ellipses giving information on their operation at any given time as well as MPH, Rpm, fuel level, range and GPS display. The i-8 also comes with newly developed laser head lights.

The BMW i8 Concept is one of the coolest hybrid vehicles to come out of a car manufacturer to date and if this is the way that hybrids are going I think we will all enjoy the future of automobiles. The i-8 gives you everything you want performance good looks and the green factor everyone is demanding these days.

I know I want one, what about you?

GREATEST ATHLETES OF ALL TIME

By: Jacob Taylor

THIS IS A LIST OF THE REVOLUTIONARY ATHLETES THAT HAVE FOREVER CHANGED THEIR SPORT AND WHO HAVE MADE A LASTING IMPACT IN THE WORLD THEY LIVED IN. THESE ARE THE MOST RECOGNIZABLE ATHLETES, THE PEAK PHYSICAL SPECIMENS OF THEIR TIME THAT WERE UNMATCHED BY ANY IN THEIR FIELD. THEY ARE ICONIC, THEY ARE WHO EVERYONE HAS LEARNED FROM AND CONTINUE TO STRIVE TO BE. THESE ARE NOT MERELY THE GREATEST ATHLETES OF THEIR DAY, THEY ARE THE GREATEST ATHLETE'S OF ALL TIME.

1. JIM THORPE

6'1 185LBS. FOOTBALL, BASEBALL, TRACK AND FIELD

To steal a line; you don't tug on superman's cape, you don't spit into the wind, you don't pull the mask off the lone ranger, and you don't mess around with Jim.

Jim Thorpe was the first great multi-sport athlete, and we consider him the greatest athlete of all time. When in college he played under legendary coach Glenn 'Pop' Warner for the Carlisle Indians and went on to win a national championship in 1912 as a running back, defensive back, field goal kicker, and punter. That summer he won Olympic gold in the pentathlon and the decathlon, then went on to play professional baseball with the Giants, Reds and Braves. A few years later he started back up with football again and excelled in the American Professional Football Association that was the precursor to the NFL. He then put on his gym shorts and started traveling around with his basketball team, "Jim Thorpe and His World Famous Indians." In 1996, ABC crowned him the 'Sports Athlete of the Century.' To put it bluntly, he was better than everyone at everything.

2. MICHAEL JORDAN

6'6 195LBS. BASKETBALL

Mike took basketball to a whole different level, literally. He lived above the rim, and rightly earned the nickname 'Air Jordan.' His artistry and expertise were amazing to watch in motion and unstoppable by his competition. He was a 6-time champion, a 5-time MVP, a 14-time all star, and he could 'D' up like no other, making 9 appearances on the NBA All-Defensive team. Not bad for a guy who was cut in high school.

Let's just say that Jordan's still such a legend that he can even get away with rocking a Hitler stash in the latest Hanes commercials and nobody stopped him. You would think that the director or even the make-up artist would tell Mike it might not be the greatest idea, but when you sell shoes, hamburgers, cereal, and underwear like he does I guess you can get away with sporting any type of infamous facial hair you'd like. Man, I want to be like Mike.

3. MUHAMMAD ALI (CASSIUS CLAY)

6'3 215LBS. (56-5 WITH 37 KOS) BOXING

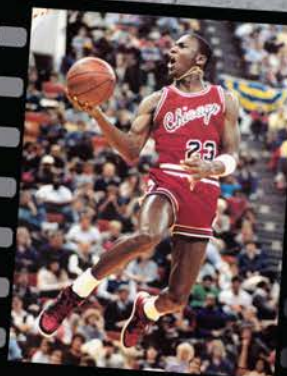

In the golden age of boxing, no one was ever better than the biggest self promoter on our list, Muhammad Ali. He was the 'greatest in the world,' just ask him.

In the years Ali was the champion, boxing was the biggest draw in sports, it received the biggest money payouts and had the greatest athletes of the day, and no one was better than Ali. With his famed phrase "float like a butterfly, sting like a bee," Ali took the boxing world by storm winning Olympic gold in 1960 and going on to become the most dynamic, powerful and entertaining athlete in sports. Ali was also part of some of the greatest fights in the history of boxing including the 'Fight of the Century' against Joe Frazier, and the 'Rumble in the Jungle' where he pulled off the rope-a-dope to defeated George Foreman who was the heavy favorite. All in all, Ali only lost 5 fights out of 61 professional times stepping in the ring, he is a legend among fight fans worldwide and is one of the most recognized athletes in sports history.

4. GEORGE HERMAN "BABE" RUTH

6'2 215LBS. BASEBALL

The Great Bambino, the Sultan of Swat, the King of Swing, or to the million of fans that love him to this day he's simply known by, the 'Babe.' Known mainly for his big bat, his curse, and his candy bar most people forget this icon of Americana began his career as a pitcher for the Boston Red Sox and had almost 100 wins under his belt before going on to become the most prolific slugger to have ever played the game. You might not guess it from his protruding gut and smoking habits, but Ruth was also one of the first baseball players to ever use a physical trainer. His home run records were unmatched for almost 40 years, and remember this dude was putting 50-60 balls out of the park in an era when entire teams couldn't keep up. It's equivalent to Albert Pujols being able to hit 200 HRs a season today. After all was said and done Ruth walked away with seven pennants, four World Series titles, and in 1936 he was part of the first class elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame. He might not hold the home run records anymore, but no one can ever take away the impact he left on the game.

5. JIM BROWN

6'2 232LBS. FOOTBALL AND LACROSSE

Even though Jim Brown only played nine years in the NFL, we still consider him the greatest running back of all time, and in 2002 Sporting News named him the greatest professional football player ever. In those nine years, he made nine Pro Bowls, he was All-NFL eight times and led the league in rushing eight times. In 1957 he was named rookie of the year and Most Valuable Player, then went on to win the MVP three more times before he decided to call it quits at the age of thirty on the set of the Dirty Dozen. After he hung up the cleats for the last time, he left the NFL with 15 regular season records, not to mention the 12 post season records he racked up in his brief career. Needless to say, he was a first ballot hall of famer.

Oh, and did I mention that Jim Brown is also in the Hall of Fame for lacrosse from his college days at Syracuse...what a bad ass.

6. WILT CHAMBERLAIN

7'1 275LBS. BASKETBALL

The most dominating big man in basketball history; no one could match Chamberlain's strength, speed, and endurance that led him to seven scoring titles in his first seven years in the NBA, including a season that he averaged over 50 points per game. He is the only athlete to ever score 100 points in a single game, and put up 65 points a game a record 15 times. To put that into perspective, everybody else in NBA history combined have only been able to accomplish that 6 times. Combine all of that with his career average of 23 boards a night, and you can make an argument that he was the most dominating player at any position, period. "Wilt the Stilt" accomplished more records than we really have time to put into our list, but here are a few of our favorites: 100 point game, 4-time MVP, 13 time all-star, 11 time rebounding leader, and claims to have slept with over 20,000 women. Wilt was the definition of greatness.

7. WAYNE GRETZKY

6' 189LBS. HOCKEY

Inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1999, "The Great One" earned his namesake by scoring more goals, creating more assists and getting more points than anybody in the history of the game. It's hard to argue with stats like that. Combine that with his four Stanley Cups and his 18 All Star appearances in only a 19 year career, and it's easy to see why Gretzky makes our list of greatest ever. He was one of the few young prodigies that lived up to the media hype that was created around him. He led the league in scoring ten times and won the Hart (MVP) trophy nine times, which is more than any other athlete, in any other sport. All in all, "The Great One" will never be topped and, since his retirement, hockey will never be the same.

8. 'PELE'

(EDSON ARANTES DO NASCIMENTO)

5'8 150LBS. SOCCER

Pele is not only seen as a national hero in Brazil, but also as one of the fathers of soccer in the United States. He is the greatest soccer player of all time, and has the credentials to prove it. He scored his first international goal at the age of 16, won his first World Cup at the age of 17, and averaged around a goal per appearance in all of his time in the World Cup. After he was considered over the hill, he came to the U.S. to play for the New York Cosmos in the North American Soccer League where his popularity increased the awareness of the sport in the states, and made the league somewhat profitable while he was there. Unfortunately, Pele didn't play forever and the league went under soon after his retirement in 1977. Later, Pele was named 'Athlete of the Century' by the International Olympic Committee.

9. LANCE ARMSTRONG

5'9 165LBS. CYCLIST

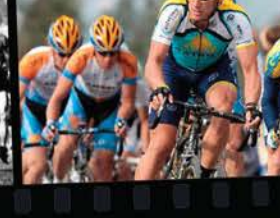

So riding a bike for a living might not be the most glamorous profession on our list, but no one came close to doing it as well or pushing as hard as Lance Armstrong. When he was 22 he became the youngest road racing champ ever, then just four years later in 1996, as he held the world's number one ranking, he was diagnosed with testicular cancer that almost ended his career and his life. But cancer, and losing a nut, couldn't stop his drive and desire to get back on the bike and become the greatest cyclist the world has ever seen. Lance won seven back-to-back Tour de France titles, not only that, he excelled on the most difficult stages of the tour leaving the competition in his dust while biking hundreds of miles up mountains in the Alps. The only thing that throws a kink in the spokes of his legend is the steroid controversy that he never seems to be able to get away from. It seems like the French just can't believe how bad they were beaten for seven straight years.

10. TONY HAWK

6'3 170LBS. SKATEBOARD

The reason that this extreme sports athlete makes our list is simply the revolutionary effect that he has had in bringing the extreme into the mainstream. Although he only competed in skateboarding, Hawk has been the biggest star in the skater community for the last 20 years. He's accredited with the invention of over 50 tricks including the nose grind, the Madonna, and the famous 900 that he pulled off for the first time in a competition at the X-games in 1999. All of which, of course, can be recreated in spectacular fashion by anybody nowadays thanks to Hawk's widely popular video game series.

Overall, Hawk has entered 103 skateboarding competitions in his career. He has won 73, and taken second place 19 times. Now Hawk is remembered by all as the most influential figurehead of the extreme sports movement, and the main reason that the X-games has become the worldwide phenomenon it is today.

TOP 20 WAYS TO GET YOUR KITTEN PURRRRING

WHAT ARE THE WILDEST WAYS TO GET YOUR LADY WORSHIPING YOUR EVERY MOVE?

You have to pet the kitten before she purrrrs.

FOLLOW THIS STEP-BY-STEP GUIDE FOR SEXY AND SULTRY IDEAS. IN THE END, YOU'LL BE THE ONE PURRRING.

1 SEXTING

If your woman is wild, or even if you'd like to heat things up, get a little dirty talk goin' on over the mobile phone system. Will and Jada Smith, the long time married hot-n-sexy Hollywood couple swear by sexting. If you're busy at work all day long, and just need to touch base, throw a little swagger in your text talk. "2nite it's on" or "me n u =fun." Even racy photos can help get the process going. The idea is by the end of the texts, your woman will pounce on you as soon as the door opens. Keep it hot. Keep it fun. Keep it you.

2 ROLLER COASTER

Be teenagers again together. Go to an amusement park and kiss or hold hands, really playing the role of lovers. If you're on an enclosed ride and have a chance, slip a finger down and really get her kitten purring. Yummy.

3 GLASS TOYS

Using a glass dildo is much different than the expected plastic. Don't be afraid of toys. Women are so multifaceted; we simply need stimulation in all parts of our bodies. Kiss her breasts and entire body while you pleasure her with this toy. Remember, it can be heated, room temperature, or frozen for extra enjoyment. Rawr.

4 ROAD HEAD ON HER

Yes, women love head too. Really, it helps the whole sexual process. Eases and lubricates one could say. Road head seems to be such a masculine phrase. Make her believe it's for women as well. Take her on a long drive. Use your fingers. Pull over and insist she drives. She'll drive slowly and you will put it in full throttle from there on out. Caution - sex crossing.

5 BATH & CANDLES

When was the last time you ran a hot bath for your woman? Women and water just go together. An hour before she gets home, light candles all over the bathroom. Draw a hot bubble bath. Lead her in. Take off her clothes and scrub a dub. You two might forsake the clean and just keep it dirty.

6 SEX IN THE KITCHEN

Something about food and sex really go together. Begin cooking the meal yourself. Draw her in and give her something fun to do like chopping or dicing. Make out with her entire body. Then, lift her on the countertop and go at it. It's okay if the food burns. You're getting what you came for... A good sexual appetite.

7 COOKING NAKED

Number six and seven go hand-in-hand. Cooking naked works well in the morning too. Make your lady a jump start smoothie or eggs her way. Men are sexy naked, especially when they have a great body. Cooking naked will entice her to come on in and finish you off. Forget the food. It's f*ck time.

8 BREAKFAST IN BED

If cooking naked or kitchen sex aren't your thing, bring it to the bedroom. Make your lady breakfast in bed. A little fresh squeezed orange juice and some sausage later might lead to her on top and you needing a nap. It'll be a good day for sure.

9 NAKED MASSAGE

Pick up your favorite massage oil. Women enjoy feminine smells like lavender or patchouli. Undress her, lather up your hands, and get to work. Make sure to rub out the tension in her neck, shoulders, and lower back. Who knows? You might get rubbed out later.

10 SHOWER PARTY

The best way to get dirty together is to get clean together. Let the shower run until the whole bathroom is steamed up. Close your eyes while you two feel your way around each other. A shower party can be the funniest way to have standing sex. Make sure to lather her up and down, from behind, and with one leg up.

11 GET SWEATY; COME HOME AND DO HER

The only thing better than a clean man is a sweaty, smelly, just-worked-out-and-has-some-stubble man. Go to the gym, work in the yard, do whatever the hell you have to in order to get dirty. Then, come home and f*ck her.

12 GROW OUT A BEARD

Your lady might like a change up every now and then. Grow out a beard, a goatee, some chops, or a stash. Feeling the sensual stubble against her skin, her breasts, her anything- really gets her going.

13 TELL HER SHE'S BEAUTIFUL

"You look pretty," is okay. "I like that outfit," is nice. But beautiful is a whole separate category. Beauty insinuates desire and women love to know that men want them. So when she's looking her best, be it morning, noon, or night- tell her. She needs to hear it. It helps her feel hot about herself and for you.

14 NEW CAR

Nothing is quite like the feeling of a new car. Want to keep your kitten purring? Get her a car that purrs. Women don't really care about what's inside the car. Just make sure it's shiny, clean, and fast. We'll do the same for you in bed.

15 COUPLE'S RETREAT

Sexy island in the middle of nowhere? Your woman's in, no doubt. Pick up some bikinis in her size, hop on a plane, and don't tell her where the two of you are going. The surprise will help her excitement build. It might just let go all over you.

16 COME F*CK ME HEELS

Buy her a pair of the hottest shoes around. To women, shoes are like the ultimate climax. They're hard and make us wet. The right kind of heels can make or break our personality. Yes, it's that serious. Try brands like L.A.M.B. by Gwen Stephanie, Christian Louboutin, or Betsey Johnson. Insist she wears them next time you two get it on.

17 BUY HER SOMETHING SMALL, FURRY, AND CUTE

We really can't resist this trifecta of small, furry, and cute. Kittens and puppies are ideal. They give us something to love and will create the feeling of family. That, in and of itself, is sexy to women.

18 BONDAGE

If handcuffs or leather is too much, try a soft scarf. Loop it around the bed frame, or just to help keep her wrists together. Hold her hands above her head and handle your business. She'll love that you're taking control. As the man she loves, she trusts you to do so.

19 DOGGY STYLE

When missionary and "leg up" get old, just turn her around, grab her ass, and build a good rhythm. There's nothing better than switching it up right in the middle of sex to hit the right spots for her. Women have multiple angles that need to be hit in order to climax fully. Get creative, deep, and make her cum.

20 PICK A TARGET

When it's time for you to come, ask her what spot she wants. Breasts, ass, neck, face, stomach- they all belong to you. But the fun part is letting her choose. Where does she want it? Let her direct you so she has the ultimate stimulation sensation. You two will both enjoy the excitement of your finale on her.

PICK SEVERAL OF THESE IDEAS OR JUST ONE. MAKE IT YOUR OWN AND REMEMBER TO INCLUDE YOUR WOMAN'S WISHES AND DESIRES FOR WHATEVER ACT YOU CHOOSE TO KEEP HER PURRING. REMEMBER - WHEN SHE'S HAPPY, SHE'LL MAKE YOU TWICE AS HAPPY.

Go ahead Kasanova, give that Kitten what she wants. Meow!

UFC Fighter: A 'Spider' in the Cage

FOR THE LAST FIVE YEARS,
NO ONE HAS KICKED AS MUCH ASS OR TAKEN DOWN AS MANY OPPONENTS AS KASANOVA'S
POUND-FOR-POUND #1 FIGHTER IN THE WORLD,

ANDERSON 'THE SPIDER' SILVA

When making bets in a Las Vegas casino there is much uncertainty, should I hit on 14, will the wheel read black or red, and who's going to win the Superbowl this year? The only sure fire bet there's been for the last half a decade has been in the UFC, when Anderson 'The Spider' Silva faces off against anybody else that happens to step into the octagon with him.

Since joining the UFC in 2006, Silva has been unstoppable. Debuting with a 49 second KO over Chris Leben, and then coming out on top over Rich Franklin for the Middle Weight title by knocking him out in under three minutes. The last five years have been pretty good to the champ as he's gone on to set records for the most consecutive wins in the UFC, with 14, and set the mark for most consecutive title defenses, with 12, all while taking down top competitors like Dan Henderson, Patrick Cote, and Vitor Belfort with ease.

In his most recent appearance, in August, at UFC 134 he avenged his last defeat from 2006, when he was disqualified for an illegal kick, by making quick work of Yushin Okami. Forcing a stoppage from a barrage of punches with 2:04 left in the second round, and making the day of everybody in the raucous sold out crowd in his native Brazil.

Although, some fight fans were hoping for close contest heading into the match with number one contender Okami, there was little doubt in anyone's mind who was going to have their hand raised at the end of the fight. Even the Vegas odds makers at the MGM Grand had Silva favored by 600 points on the eve of the battle. To put that into perspective, you would need to make a bet of $600 just to win $100.

Silva began his martial arts career at an early age earning a black belt in Tae Kwon Do by the age of 18, and got his first taste of the ring just five years later, in 1997, with a pair of victories in the Brazilian fight circuit. Overall, Silva has fought for the UFC, Meca, Shooto, Cage Rage and Pride on his way to an impressive 31-4 lifetime MMA record that puts him in the conversation as one of the best fighters ever.

Silva uses almost a cat and mouse type of counter attacking style which he employs to lure his opponents into the false hopes of having a chance to land a clean blow, before he unleashes an onslaught of unorthodox kicks and punches that usually lands his foes on their ass.

'The Spider' was given the nickname due to his unusual fighting style and his ability to strike with accuracy from any angle with any appendage at any time, making it seem like he has eight legs coming at you; which really isn't that far from the truth. Using his background in Muay Tai, JiuJitsu, Judo, and Tae Kwon Do he has been able to master the ability to use his feet, knees, elbows, and fists giving him eight tools to ruin his opponents' day.

Silva's unconventional style has taken him to the pinnacle of the fighting world, being named by the Kasanova editor's pick, as well as countless other organizations, as the pound-for-pound greatest mixed martial artist in the world. And at 36 years of age, he doesn't seem to be getting older--just more dangerous.

Lately, there has been some talk of Silva leaving the UFC to explore other ventures, but with the money and draw that Anderson evokes president Dana White would probably do just about anything to keep the biggest star in MMA history under contract until he's too old to walk.

Although his fights are extremely entertaining, at this point the difference between Silva and his competition is drastic. The other middle weight's need to either catch up or they might want to think about going into a different career, because no one has much of a chance of hurting 'The Spider' in his eight-sided-circle of pain.

LIFE AND CARS WITH LUKE RICHARDS

Inventor of the Lucra Car Series, Richards chats about his life and passions with Kasanova, including his one true love, cars.

By: Chelsea Dillon-Miller

He's always tinkered with cars. And, his main reads are mechanical engineering books. This inventor, however, is anything but boring. Jump in the passenger's seat with Luke Richards and see how fast his life goes.

Almost as fast as his cars... Almost.

He's completely proud of this stat, too. To Luke, nothing is as sweet a ride as his cars. Wanna know how this England boy turned East Coast kid started a million dollar business? No crash helmet needed. Let Luke take you for the test ride of your life. He's a millionaire, many times over. He's invented, produced and is currently selling his own car line. He's also the consummate mechanic at heart with an engineer's soul and a soft spot for his 80-year-old mentor, who taught him everything he knows.

Luke answers questions about life, his history, and his business with vigor. He enjoys reminiscing. But when the conversation turns to cars, his voice and passion go into full throttle.

The forty year old spent his time between London and Connecticut as a child. He remembers constantly tinkering away as a young boy, building small race cars and since, the inspiration has never left him. As an adult he became a car dealer, and to Luke, owning his own car line was a natural next step. This seems to be the difference between those who succeed at their dreams and those who don't. The ones that don't lose, simply just never give up. "It's that simple," says Luke.

It took him two and a half years to design, model, and build the first of the Lucra series, beginning in 2005. In his travels as a car dealer, he'd met the automotive world's elite. He knew what collectors, drivers, and the fanatics wanted. He also knew it wasn't on the market.

Immediately, he hooked up with Auto-CAD engineers to help him bring his vision to fruition. Two point five years and one mentor-investor later, Luke knew he had something special.

"My mentor is a car connoisseur. He's a business man and a very successful one at that. He's like a grandfather figure to me. I've learned the world from him. We have a lot in common. We share dreams and inspiration about cars and business together. Some people think the elders aren't worth much more than a story here or there. The truth is they know it all. They're willing to tell you, as long as you're willing to ask, and listen. They're a wealth of information. My mentor has taught me everything I know about life, business, and cars. We share in the success together and I couldn't be happier than to have someone to help me grow with my business. It's like a partnership of knowledge."

With inspiration and elbow grease, Luke dug in to the production of his first vehicle model, which he notes is a whole different beast. Just because you can build a car doesn't mean you can PRODUCE a series. Luke designed a production process to manufacture, build, and incorporate the best materials into his cars.

Consistency was his ultimate goal for the LC470 series.

From day one to the present, Luke was along "every step of the way."

The idea was to capture a mixture of the vintage Ferrari look with better handling. Luke notes that older cars have a great aesthetic, but simply didn't have the driving factors or safety necessities most people want today. "They didn't really have cars figured out yet. The older cars are fast as hell and look great, but never had the power steering or safety features. That stuff hadn't even been invented yet. I knew with my car line, I could take the best of both worlds. Combine the old and the new for the ultimate look and feel."

He did it, too.

Lucra Cars are 100% American made with production out of Los Angeles, however, the series is sold internationally in the US as well as Canada, Spain, the UK, Germany, Austria, and Switzerland. His cars are the perfect blend of style and performance with a 1950-60's racecar look and feel, including the highest quality of materials around. "For eighty-five thousand, you'll get the car I'd build for myself."

Luke looks back to the good 'ol days. "After WWII, men came home to a booming economy and good jobs. If you were an established man with a decent job, you could save your pennies and afford the newest Ferrari or Aston Martin series. America was a different place and time back then. Now, these brands START at one million plus. You have to be a millionaire to afford the hottest new wheels. I knew there was a market for men like me. Men who wanted the look and feel of a million dollar car, with excellent performance, in an affordable price range."

Mr. Richards is bringing American-made-and-driven back. He has hundreds of satisfaction stories to prove it. "Most of my clients become my friends as well. I like that aspect of my business. I love when a Lucra car owner calls me, and we know each other by first name at that point. One of my clients called and said, 'Man I've never seen people respond the way they do when I drive by in this car.' This particular client lives in Marina Del Ray, is a dad with a good paying 9 to 5, and has joined a car club on the weekends. He was driving around the hills of LA in his car club, got lost, and hooked up with a more elite car club, lined with the hottest sells of that year. Every time the leader of the pack looked in his rearview mirror, there was the Lucra car, right on his ass. The old boys of that club were so impressed with this intriguing new car; they had to know what it was. I get hundreds of stories like this. Women, men, kids, grandma's alike love this car. You should see the reaction just from driving around the corner and filling up for gas. I've had people call and say they were stuck at a gas station for hours taking photos with people becoming fans.

Aesthetic is as powerful as performance, and the Lucra series maintains both. Drawing from the essence of 1950's looks, the cars come in catching colors like white with a lateral race-stripe, opposing blue and orange, even silver or black with red leather interior.

These cars are extremely rare, operating with the power of a V8, but weighing less than a Lotus. "They are extremely powerful, have exceptional handling and performance, with a European flair," notes Luke.

Although he's too much of a gentleman to admit to it, we'd bet there's been a few incidences of "steamy windows" in the Lucra 470's. Luke's passion is really with the cars however, noting "It's just great to have the respect of the million dollar car clubs. I saw a guy driving a Lucra the other day on PCH with the biggest smile. I thought, man, I did that. Totally worth it."

And there Luke is. Content in the dust of his dream, as his Lucra whizzes past him. Now that's something to smile about.

By Chelsea Dillon-Miller

Brazil, South America

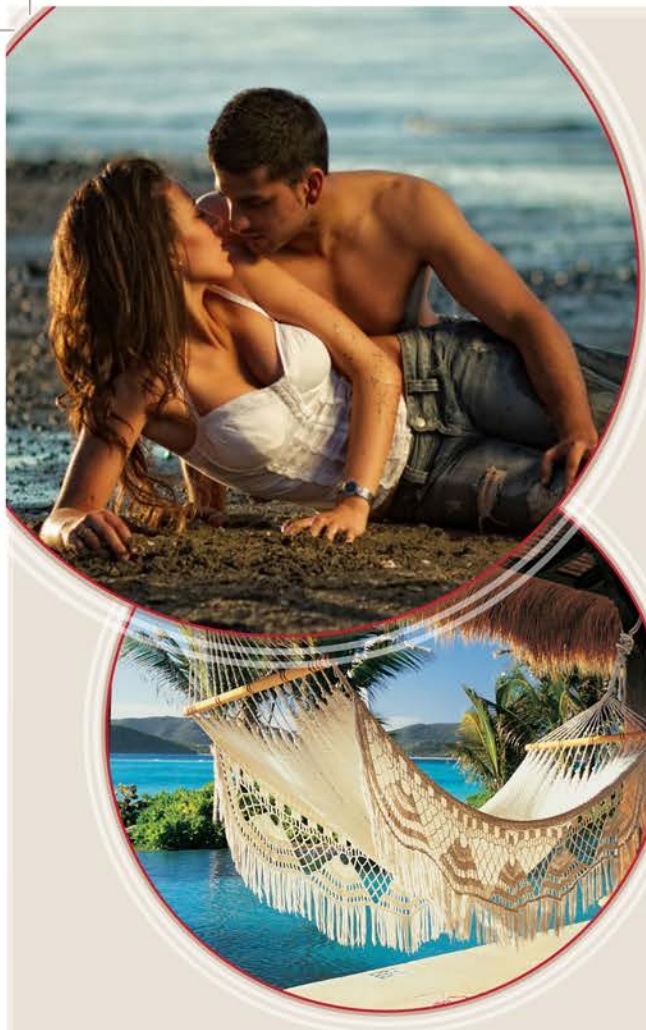

Travelers: Singles and couples alike

Sex tips: Outgoing culture, Carnival

The Down Low: Brazil is the largest and most diverse country in South America. Its natives speak Portuguese and this fun loving culture flourishes in the sexuality of the times. Brazilians are known for being sexually outgoing, wild, often-times bisexual, bi-curious, and depending on the person, even comfortable with swinging. During Carnival, the enormous festival held for the six days before Easter, cities like Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo hire dance troops, music, and festivities to entertain viewers. It's common for men and women alike to be performing nude or in barely there attire. Bright lights, glitter, feathers, and the quickest dance moves you ever seen is all some of these performers wear. The shenanigans of Carnival could put Mardi-Gras to shame, and why not be a part of the fun. Brazil offers 5-star resorts at some of its most famous beaches like Ipanema and Copacabana. In Brazil, the attitude is "anything goes." Get there and get busy. Sex it up. Brazil will embrace your inner wild child.

GET TO THE NITTY GRITTY - ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS EVERY MAN WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR KASANOVA,

I'M A GUY WITH DECENT STYLE, BUT I'M LOOKING FOR SOME POINTERS FOR A FIRST DATE TO MAKE SURE I SEAL THE DEAL, AND GET ROUND TWO WITH THE GIRL? LET ME KNOW WHAT WORKS BEST.

SIGNED,
ON A STYLE QUEST

Dear On A Style Quest,

Your attire for any occasion always has to be appropriate to the situation. So for example you're not going to wear a suit to take a girl to a baseball game. So when dressing for your first chance to impress your date, keeping it simple is always a great rule of thumb. For casual dates; such as casual dinner dates, movies, game events, etc opt for a nice pair of jeans, comfortable dress shoes and a collared short sleeve shirt, preferably white or black. This is a simple casual look that looks great with any hair style or body shape. For more formal events, gala's, corporate functions, etc... You want to dress it up with a long sleeve collared shirt, black, white or a fashion piece by Bertigo, (PICTURED) grey or black dress slacks; unless a suit or tux is mandatory and nice dress shoes with a belt, and a great accessory watch. The watch will be the winning piece. These simple looks and solid selections will allow the date to appreciate your masculine style, without getting distracted by "wrong" fashion choices. This will ensure her attraction to your style, and open the door to Date #2 with ease.

DEAR KASANOVA,

HOW DO I MAKE SURE MY BODY LANGUAGE IS SENDING THE RIGHT SIGNALS TO WOMEN?

SIGNED,
SIGNAL UNCERTAINTY

Dear Signal Uncertainty,
Great question! We all say a lot more with our body language than we think, so being conscious of it is very important when it comes to landing your dream girl. First of all, is your eye contact; you always want to maintain strong eye contact, not staring but a confidence look that says I'm engaged, interested, and listening..

Make sure you have a strong firm hand shake; this earns respect instantly and shows calm confidence from the get-go. Next, watch how close you lean in to woman. When you move in too close, it can come off as needy, and she will pull away or be turned off. Maintain a healthy space between you two while you are in conversation and still getting to know each other. You also want to avoid crossing your arms or legs, sub-consciously this behavior isolates yourself and others will sense it. So keep a relaxed open stance at all times. To help build your posture for optimal body confidence, make sure you do sports or hit the gym often. These simple tips will boost your confidence and increase your chances of sending the right body language signals to get and keep her interested.

DEAR KASANOVA,

I'VE JUST STARTED A NEW RELATIONSHIP, AND I REALLY WANT THIS ONE TO WORK. WHAT ARE THE KEYS TO SUCCESS TO MAKING SURE I HAVE A GREAT RELATIONSHIP WITH THIS AMAZING GIRL?

SIGNED,
MAKE IT GREAT

Dear Make It Great,

Too many relationships fizzle too soon because so many people don't know the simple steps to making a relationship great. First, you want to get to know each other well. Ask important questions about values, interest, thoughts, feelings and hobbies to determine if you have a lot in common. The beginning is the time to ask the important questions regarding past relationship history and character/behavior habits. Most relationships don't work, because people rush into relationships with people who really aren't compatible enough to begin with. Second, giving each other personal space is a vital key to success in any relationship. We are all individuals, and when in relationships we each need to maintain some independence so that you both have something to offer the relationship; sharing stories of life experiences or day-to-day occurrences of each others' lives. When couples become to co-dependent on each other this can become a relationship killer. Trust me, give each other ample breathing room to be individuals, and your time together will be all the more sweeter and appreciated. Next, no matter how long you are together, you have to make time for quality romantic time together. Finally, the best way to maintain the spark in any relationship is to maintain "Romantic Allure". This means offering a little challenge to keep the sexual tension and desire alive in the relationship. Flirt like teenagers, play like kids, send cute messages, playfully tease each other, and spend time apart. You have to keep your partner wanting you, and she'll return the favor. Try this, and watch; your relationship will thrive like a wild fire.

ASK GET TO THE NITTY GRITTY - ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS EVERY MAN WANTS TO KNOW

KASANOVA

Dear KASANOVA,

How do I come across as a challenge to a woman to keep her interested, but not seem like a jerk?

Signed,

Confident Challenger

Dear Confident Challenger,

To keep a woman interested you have to keep her surprised and challenged by your behavior. This does not mean you have to insult her, be rude or disrespectful in any way. Quite the opposite. You must be playful with her. Don't be aloof, be engaging. For example when flirting, you can accuse her of hitting on you. She'll laugh it off or deny it, but it will spark her own feelings of interest in you by making her realize she actually is "hitting on you" by flirting with you. Like an AHA Moment. Also, if a woman calls or texts, and you don't respond. ...This will disappoint her, and you just might not get her to take your call again. So always respond in kind, but maybe not right away...Call her when she least expects it soon afterwards, and she'll be excited to hear from you. Also, if a woman asks for a favor, don't just say no because you don't want to appear weak, rather negotiate for something you want, like a kiss on the cheek or a date?...Get it. She's got to give to get. Always keep her guessing what your next move will be, and she'll be so intrigued; she'll be waiting for it.

Dear KASANOVA,

How do I make a first kiss unforgettable to a girl?

Signed,

Unforgettable

Dear Unforgettable,

We all know the first kiss can make or break the deal with a new girl you're seeing. So a few pointers to make sure it's a winner are first, make sure you come in fir the kiss slowly. It makes it more romantic and sensual for her. When she feels like your being soft and gentle, it'll make her relax with you. Next, you can opt for putting one hand on her cheek and the other on her waist to pull her closer. She'll like this move because it will enhance her submissive female nature. Third, you could opt for a new move, by placing your hands on her torso, above her waist, just slightly below her breast and pulling her close to you.

This is a unique move that will get her feeling very vulnerable to your man handling. It will definitely make for a first kiss that she will never forget, and even come back for more of.

Dear KASANOVA,

I'm a decent looking guy, but I don't get enough girls. I don't think it's my looks, what's the problem? Please help!

Signed,

Single & Not Happy

Dear Single & Not Happy,

This one might have a simple solution. Most of the time, men find themselves in "No Man's Land" with women because of 2 simple reasons. The first, is that you are not going out enough to more places where girls you want to meet will be. It's a numbers game. Put yourself in more places, around more beautiful girls, and your odds will increase dramatically in finding one that suits your likings. Second, is to flirt more! Yup, I know it sounds easier said than done. But most men are intimidated to approach women, that they miss their chances of ever meeting their special princess. So, get out more...And start talking to more women. A simple, "Wow, you're really beautiful!" works as a great ice breaker, with a genuine smile, followed up with a firm handshake, confident eye contact, and an introduction of yourself. Remember, the key to success, is usually a combination of very simple ingredients. So mix it up and enjoy!

BEST SEAT IN THE HOUSE

HOW CAN ONE EVEN BEGIN TO JUDGE THE BEST STADIUMS IN THE WORLD? WHAT COULD YOU POSSIBLY RANK THEM ON? THE TRADITION AND HISTORY? THE STATE-OF-THE-ART EQUIPMENT AND FACILITIES? THE COMFORT, THE FOOD, THE PRICE OF BEER? THERE'S NO FOOL PROOF WAY TO MAKE THE GRADE, BUT FOR YOU KASANOVA'S OUT THERE, HERE'S A BRIEF LIST OF WHAT WE RECOMMEND AS THE BEST SEATS IN THE HOUSE. IN NO PARTICULAR ORDER...

BY JACOB TAYLOR

YANKEE'S STADIUM FOR BASEBALL

City: New York, New York
Opened: 2009
Capacity: 50,291-54,251
Cost: $1.5 Billion

History:

It's not the 'House that Ruth built' and it definitely does not have the rich history or tradition of a lot of the other stadiums on our list, but with the way the Yankees have been able to dominate the baseball world for the last 100 years the 'new' Yankee Stadium is writing its own history and creating its own lore quicker than any ball park in the nation. Given the fact that they came home with the World Series in 2009 and are the American League favorite to make it back to the promise land again this year, it's no wonder why.

Reason to Go:

To watch the highly paid all-star exhibition team that is known as the New York Yankees, and perhaps to walk through the giant Yankee's Museum. If you have the means, I'd recommend sitting with 10-20 of your closest friends in any of the suites that are offered, but just so you know, the alcohol is not included.

WRIGLEY FIELD FOR BASEBALL

City: Chicago, Illinois
Opened: 1914
Capacity: 41,159
Cost: $250,000

History:

No other stadium on our list can boast a more iconic outfield fence (besides maybe Fenway) than the ivy backdrop of the Chicago Cubs. Rich in history and diehard fans, Wrigley is one of the most breathtaking places to watch a game, but don't go hoping to see the Cubbies win because you'll probably be disappointed. A wise man once told me that the only thing more certain than death and taxes, are the Cubs falling short of expectations. Sorry Cubs fans...I'm not buying the whole curse of the Billie-goat.

Reason to Go:

Please don't go to catch a foul ball in a playoff game over the top of Moises Alou. It didn't work out to well for the last guy (Bartman), or the Cubs for that matter. Go to find out which celebrity will be singing "Take me out to the Ball Game" during the seventh inning stretch, and sit along the ivy covered outfield fence for a chance to catch a home run from the opposing team...and then throw it back.

LAMBEAU FIELD FOR FOOTBALL

City: Green Bay, Wisconsin Capacity: 73,128
 Opened: 1957 Cost: $960,000

History:

This “frozen tundra” is home to the most storied franchise in the NFL, the Green Bay Packers, the greatest coach of all-time, Vince Lombardi, and the biggest flip-flopper in sports, Bret Farve. It also played host to the most grueling game in NFL history, the infamous Ice Bowl, where the Packers faced off with the Cowboys in temperatures of -15 F and on a field that was completely frozen over.

Reason to Go:

Mainly the history, or if you really want to test your manhood by trying to wear nothing but body paint in the snow of Green Bay. But I don’t suggest risking your life. I recommend sitting down behind the end zones for a chance to be part of the Lambeau Leap, and fully dressed would be appropriate.

INDIANAPOLIS MOTOR SPEEDWAY FOR NASCAR, INDY CAR, AND FORMULA 1

City: Indianapolis, Indiana
 Opened: 1909
 Capacity: 257,325-400,000
 Cost: $3 million

History:

This asphalt and brick course goes back over 100 years and has a museum that is filled with cars and other racing paraphernalia that date back to its inception. Take your pick race fans, Andretti or Earnhardt?

Reason to Go:

To visit, by far, the biggest stadium in the world. Depending on your racing tastes, go for the Indy 500 or the Brickyard 400... and make sure to bring your earplugs. If you can’t get into the Pagoda VIP tower suites, try out the moderately priced seats and you should probably bring in your own drinks to cut down on costs over the long day of racing. I recommend rum and coke mixed inside a few plastic coke bottles.

COWBOYS STADIUM FOR FOOTBALL

City: Arlington, Texas Capacity: 80,000-111,000
 Opened: 2009 Cost: $1.3 billion

History:

None much to speak of besides being the most expensive and high-tech stadium ever constructed, but go quickly because every new stadium that’s built seems to always take that title.

Reason to Go:

To relax in luxury and watch a few replays on the world’s largest high definition scoreboard that spans 11,520 square feet, nicknamed the “Jerry-Tron” after owner Jerry Jones. I’d recommend sitting anywhere a few rows up and around the 50 yard line for the best possible view of the behemoth of a monitor.

CAMP NOU (NOU CAMP) FOR SOCCER

City: Barcelona, Catalonia Capacity: 98,787
 Opened: 1957 Cost: Unknown

History:

60,000 FC Barcelona fans were on hand to watch as an Archbishop blessed the first stone that was laid at the grounds that would become Camp Nou. FC Barca had already had a long storied franchise before the stadium was built, but Camp Nou ushered in a new era of excellence and has been home to some of the greatest soccer players in the world.

Reason to Go:

Home to one of the most exciting styles of soccer in Eurasia, that keeps a faster pace with more emphasis on attacking and scoring goals than most other European clubs. It is also the place to watch Lionel Messi, the greatest soccer player in the world. I would recommend sitting in a higher section, or in a box if you can, to avoid any random soccer brawls, smoke bombs, firecrackers, or any other projectile that could miss its target and hit the people sitting field level.

MGM GRAND GARDEN ARENA FOR UFC

City: Las Vegas, Nevada
Opened: 1993
Capacity: 17,157
Cost: Unknown

History:

Venue to some of the biggest fights in UFC history; like Penn v St Pierre, Shamrock v Ortiz, and Lesnar v Couture. Other than the fights, some big name music talent has also been featured here; including Elton John, Barbra Streisand, Billy Joel and Jimmy Buffet. Hope the 'Parrot Heads' didn't leave a mess.

Reason to Go:

If you're not already planning on going to Vegas, viewing one of the hottest tickets in town might be a good reason to make the trip. MMA is the fastest growing sport in the world and the UFC is the pinnacle of the profession. Go to watch the greatest names in the fight game, but save some money and sit back far enough to be able to see the action on the big screens. Those camera guys aren't getting any smaller.

FENWAY PARK FOR BASEBALL

City: Boston, Massachusetts
Opened: 1912
Capacity: 37,493
Cost: $650,000

History:

Even since 1919, when Boston sold Babe Ruth up the road to the Yanks for a bucket of balls and a bag of skittles, the Red Sox had been cursed by the Bambino to never win another championship. Red Sox Nation was the team of lovable losers with strong accents and never ending support for a team that could not get past their hated rivals from the North. Not Ted Williams, or Carl Yastrzemski, or even Wade Boggs could do anything to lift the curse. That is, until 2004 when the Sox beat all odds to come back from a 3-0 hole to defeat the Yankees and go onto win their first World Series in almost a hundred years.

Reason to Go:

To sit atop the 'Green Monster' and pity the right handed hitters that have to make it over the thirty-seven foot wall, and the opposing left fielders that have to figure out how to play the bounce off of it.

OHIO STADIUM "HORSESHOE" / MICHIGAN STADIUM "BIG HOUSE"

City: Columbus, Ohio
Opened: 1922
Capacity: 102,329
Cost: $1.34 million

City: Ann Arbor, Michigan
Opened: 1927
Capacity: 109,901
Cost: $950,000

History:

Hard to split up these fierce rivals with powerhouse programs and illustrious stadiums, so they both get shoved in here together. The Ohio State Buckeyes and Michigan Wolverines have one of the oldest rivalries in college sports, and perhaps the most intense rivalries in sports period.

Reason to Go:

College football is king in the U.S. and these rivalry games are a must see, but even though both stadiums can seat over 100,000 it's still a tough ticket to come by. I recommend pre-gaming in a student hosted tailgate party outside, and hoping you run into the right person who has an extra ticket, or is too drunk to make it in for the festivities.

CENTRE COURT, ALL-ENGLAND CLUB (ALL-ENGLAND LAWN TENNIS AND CROQUET CLUB) FOR WIMBLEDON TENNIS

City: London, England
Opened: 1922
Capacity: 14,000
Cost: Unknown

History:

Although the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club dates back to the late 1860's, Centre Court didn't make its debut until 1922 when the club moved to its current location. As far as the history goes; Pete Sampras, Andre Agassi, Arthur Ashe, Billie Jean-King, Roger Federer, Steffi Graf, the Williams Sisters and every other tennis great you've ever heard of has searched for glory at Centre Court.

Reason to Go:

To watch the finest tennis on grass anywhere in the world. The best seat in this house is a little harder to come by than most, but if you can somehow buddy up to anyone in the royal family, you might get a chance to watch the final match with the Queen herself from the Royal Gallery.
