By: Andrew De Leon

KASANOVA. You've heard the name before. It evokes images of the 18th century ladies man; the Venetian who became the stuff of legend; the irresistible man with the magnetic appeal. However, His indelible reputation doesn't reveal his most valuable assets. He knew what he wanted and was able to recognize opportunities and seize them. Undeniably, Kasanova was a master strategist; once he discovered the winning formula, he used it over and over again.

Fast forwarding to the 21st century, the basics of the male agenda remain unchanged. We still want the same things: clout, money, recognition and all their material trappings. Unlike the luckiest of our female counterparts, most of us don't have the luxury of simply showing up, smiling, and expecting to be rewarded. On the contrary, it is both our greatest burden and opportunity to constantly clear the hurdles between ourselves and IT, whatever the IT may be. How you choose to go about doing this will determine your own unique lifestyle and how you live along the way. It requires multiple skills to succeed in today's challenging world; a world of elevating science and technology. As does society, the successful "KASANOVA" man continues to evolve, right here . . . right now.

Regardless of the time in which they live, successful people find an angle, exploit it, and reap the benefits. Like Kasanova, they develop their unique formula for success by capitalizing on their assets. Regardless of your endeavor, I believe that your success depends upon what I call, your "powers of recognition." I've noticed that most people wouldn't know a good thing if it slapped them in the face.

Many can't differentiate between a mediocre opportunity and the possibility of a windfall, though the difference is as dramatic as seeing the new Scorpion prototype, parked next to a souped up Mazda Miata with a ground effects kit.

I place the highest value on developing and refining my own powers of recognition. If you have the ability to tell the real McCoy from the knock-off, and the courage to act on that knowledge you can't avoid being successful. I find it hard to function from a state of ignorance. I need to know, for myself what's good and what's to be had, if I can get it. Therefore, I constantly strive to recognize business and social opportunities, and also to ascertain what motivates people. People are drawn to success, I challenge myself to fill my environment with material possessions that reflect my own unique style; the trappings and images of success.

Within the pages of Kasanova you will discover signs of the successful male: Kars, Kastles, Kittenz, Kaves and Kollektibles. Acquiring them speaks to the hedonist in all of us. I enjoy the one-ups-manship of being the person whose lifestyle, friends and associates seek to emulate in their business and personal lives. The end game lies not in the mere acquisition of things, but in the knowledge that I have taken my very best shot in life, without sacrificing my own unique flair. So acquire a wide base of functional knowledge, recognize your opportunities, develop your strategy, and make your moves. Most of all, enjoy the perks, and don't underestimate the importance of looking good while doing it.

That's the Kasanova Kredo. Enjoy

A clear plastic water bottle is the central focus, set against an underwater scene. The bottle has the word "OSEA" printed in white, stylized, serif font. The background is filled with vibrant green and yellow seaweed, and several small blue fish are visible swimming in the clear blue water. The lighting is bright, creating a sense of depth and clarity.

FERRARI

FERRARI

Ferrari has done it again, made a car with so much raw sexual energy that no man can withstand its advances. A breathtakingly beautiful road car with its long front end and postured back makes it look like a woman stretched out on a bed waiting for you to come and ravish her.

This car has all the good looks that you've come to expect from the Italian automaker and although there is not too many differences from the GTB at least visually. Under the skin of this machine a lot of changes have taken place, with a price tag of $300,000 pounds or roughly $474,060, a hundred thousand pounds more than the standard GTB. They had to make some serious changes and they did.

The power plant is a 661 horse power V12, that puts out an incredible 457 pounds of foot torque at maxim rev's meaning this is a fully raced tuned motor. They have increased the compression from 11.2 to 11.9 and the motor has a higher rev limit witch hits 8400 rpm. It is also equipped with an entirely new intake system as well as a redesigned six into one manifold set up. With redesigned tap it, cam-loads and piston skirts providing twelve percent less friction. Equating to more horse power making sure all the power gets to the ground, is huge Michelin Pilot Super sport tires 285 in the front and 315 in the rear. The bigger tires help with under steer as well does the increased roll stiffness in the rear, keeping the front wheels planted on the ground.

Overall the car is 100 kilograms or 220 pounds lighter than the GTB and has fifty more horse power. The lighter weight comes from Ferrari's painstaking process to lighten the whole car. The body work modifications alone save an astonishing sixty eight pounds. The modifications also include redesigned splitter and double diffusers which almost doubles the Ferrari 599 GTO's down force. The Ferrari 599 GTO is the fastest ever road going Ferrari, ever to come out of the Italian design house. It also boasts the quickest lap time at the Fiorano race track of any street legal Ferrari. With a top speed of over 200 miles an hour and a 0-62mph time of 3.2 seconds it is very easy to see how it has set those records. Very impressive.

The cabin is mostly carbon fiber and everything else is wrapped in black Italian suede, It's a race car with a lavish touch, it does have air conditioning and a radio. Half the joy in driving one of these beasts is to hear that perfectly tuned Ferrari motor at top speeds.

I personally don't think there is a more beautiful sounding engine. The Ferrari 599 GTO with loads of power on tap and abundant good looks puts this car firmly perched at the top of the food chain in its class. This is definitely a car every KASANOVA should own, after all I have never heard any women say they don't dream of being in a Ferrari.

Ian Cameron, Chief Designer

DESIGNING THE FUTURE

Ghost's flowing lines are dominated by its majestic 'Yacht Line' styling. Large, uninterrupted surfaces flow between finely sculpted horizontal lines that provide definition. Together, the upward-sweeping sill line and low-cut roof create a powerful profile, almost as though the cabin has been pushed toward the rear. Powerful shoulders and flanks draw in sharply as they flow from the rear wings to the tail lights, while touches such as the optional chromed exhausts hint at Ghost's more dynamic nature.

the Outside World...

GHOST

While incorporating classic Rolls-Royce design cues – the elevated prow, long bonnet, short front overhang, sharply raked A-pillar and elegant tail – Ghost exudes an informal aura. Contemporary touches include self-righting wheel centres and the Xenon headlamps that frame the latest evolution of the Rolls-Royce grille. Here the sides of the intake have been curved inwards and the vanes set back into the opening. “We wanted this to be less reminiscent of the traditional Parthenon style and more like a jet intake,” says Ian Cameron.

A contrasting Silver Satin finish (introduced on 200EX) is an option for the bonnet, grille and windscreen surround. The finish is achieved by setting silver metallic paint under a layer of lacquer, giving a flawless matte finish.

The central principle of delivering simplicity out of complexity runs throughout Ghost. Everything is designed, engineered and crafted to enhance the drive and ride experience, not to complicate it.

“Ghost is as refined and cossetting as anything this marque has ever produced.”

Charles Coldham, Interior Designer

Inside Ghost, the interior design team has come up with a contemporary ambience while staying true to Rolls-Royce Motor Cars’ traditions of fine materials and peerless comfort. There are elegant, frosted lamps and chrome door handles, traditional violin key switches and eyeball air vents, frosted white dials and refined instrumentation. Deep-pile carpets can be complemented by optional lambswool floor mats for a truly luxurious feel.

Ghost is entered through substantial doors. Housed within the front doors are integrated Teflon-coated umbrellas. The rear doors are traditional, rear-hinged coach doors, opening to a generous 83 degrees. Once the passenger is inside, these doors can be closed at the touch of a button. The interior space is filled with natural light, enhanced by the optional Panorama Sunroof, which extends from the front into the rear compartment.

Four-zone automatic air conditioning can be individually tailored to each passenger’s requirements, with separate controls for front and rear. Automatic air recirculation, condensation prevention and solar compensation are delivered through classic chromed eyeball vents controlled via organ-stop plungers.

Within Ghost's ample doors and high shoulder line, occupants feel serene, cosseted and safe. In the rear, the intimate ambience of the lounge seat is emphasised by its position behind the C-pillar, heightening the sense of privacy. The informal seating creates a convivial environment, its slight curve allowing you to turn more easily towards the person next to you. Its elevated position gives a clear view past the electronically retracting Spirit of Ecstasy to the road ahead.

Individual lounge seating is offered as an alternative to the standard lounge configuration. This allows the addition of a massage function and also perforated leather for a cooling stream of air from the seat surface. Auxiliary rear climate control allows the passenger to regulate the temperature of the air on their side of the car, without intrusion on the other. A cool box with interior illumination and integrated champagne glasses is also available.

Veneered picnic tables are another option, incorporating the finest leather and veneers matched to the rest of Ghost's interior. Fitted to the rear of each front seat, these tables are a traditional Rolls-Royce design cue and finished with a veneered surface with leather-covered backs.

"Ghost is designed to be an escape from the outside world."

Alan Sheppard, Interior Designer

Enhancing the Ghost ambience is an audio system delivering an exquisite experience. 600 Watts of sound are delivered through a 10-channel amplifier and 16 speakers, including two floor-mounted subwoofers. USB and auxiliary inputs allow for the integration of external audio devices and a 12.5 GB hard drive enables storage of music files from USB or CD player sources.

Available as an option with both seating arrangements is Theatre Configuration, which allows all settings that do not directly affect the driver to be controlled from the rear seat. The functions are displayed on two 9.2in LCD screens in the back of the front seats; these can be angled to suit the viewers by a central, armrest-mounted, rotary controller. The screens can be regulated independently of each other and the entertainment can also be listened to individually with most headphones. A six-disc multi-media changer, mounted in the glove compartment, is fitted as part of this option. Continued on page 28...

Surfing in Style

by: Chelsea Dillon-Miller

The sport of surfing is now the current leader in the extreme sports market, paving the way for all other max-adrenaline athletics including skateboarding, snowboarding, wind and wake surfing. Trendy yet action-oriented, this once 1960's beach-bum recreation has become hip, even luxurious. Kasanova would like to get its readers riding the wave, dude. According to the Surf Industry Manufacturers Association (SIMA), this eight million dollar industry has survived the economy's tidal wave due to its friendly, fitness and frank nature and has a fiscal figure on the high-tide rise. Touching the health and wellness, clothing and fashion, video, photography, and even Hollywood industries, something about surfing just coos, "Come on in, Bro."

Surfer and Surfing magazines, Reef, Quiksilver and Roxy Clothing Inc., even pro-surfers turned musicians like Jack Johnson and Donavon Frankenreiter have led to the rise and popularity of surfing. Gidget and Blue Crush are out. This is serious business. Take it from the ten time world champion, Kelly Slater, who has current endorsements with several surf board companies, including the international organizations of FCS (producing all surfboard and gear related items), Channel Islands Surfboards, and Al Merrick's Surfboard Co., the most famous and marketable shaper in the world. (PS- Kelly Slater also has endorsements with gorgeous ladies; he has dated the likes of sex star Pamela Anderson, supermodel Gisele Bundchen, and Hollywood actress Cameron Diaz.)

So how do we get our Kasanova boys in the water and paddling back in as men? Easy. Surfing is now on every shore of every continent and accessible as all hell. One thing that comes right along with scruffy, surfing men: chicks in teeny, tiny bikinis. Women seem to love the allure of a man that surfs. Something about the buff arms, toned shoulders, and six pack abs just makes those bikini bottoms drop like water. Remember, surfing is the sport that trains those muscles so no matter your physique, it can be ship-shaped up by this activity.

Tired of the usual sport suspects: tennis and golf? Shocked those women just don't hang around the courts or course? Try out the beach. Women love to flock to the sand and sun. Surfing is the new black, everyone's wearing it. Need to know the next wave to take off on?

Here are your basics:

1.) You'll need a surfboard and gear, including a leash and surfboard wax.

Surfboards: Try any Al Merrick, Rusty Surfboards, T&C Surf Designs, Lost, or Channel Islands Surfboards. If you've never surfed before you can rent first, or purchase a long board (7' or longer) which is easier to begin on. As you surf more often, work your way down to a short board (7' or shorter).

Gear: Surfboard leashes and any accouterment can be facilitated by FCS, purchasable at any local surf shop or online at www.surffcs.com.

Wax: Try Sex Wax, no joke, it's the top brand. All out of sex? Try Sticky Bumps, they have cool, cold, and warm water wax. Shine on the board in a circle motion and the wax will help your feet stick so you don't look like a kook, man.

2.) Either a wetsuit or board shorts and rash-guard is necessary for any water trip:

Again, online shopping is a great guide for this if you know your weight and size. Otherwise, use your local surf rat's knowledge from the nearest surf shop. Ask them for wearable gear in the following companies: Billabong, Body Guard, Hurley, O'Neill, Patagonia, Quiksilver, or Rip Curl.

3.) Surf Lessons:

Any local or friend would be willing to teach you, in exchange for a beer and a meal. That's the going bargain rate. However, the following surf schools are nationwide and offer private, couples, or group classes. Many of the surf schools offer surf retreats as well to Fiji, Mexico, the Indian Ocean, Southeast Asia, or remote surf spots in the US.

4.) If you're going solo or skipping the lessons, try these websites for surf news, sports, tides, and info:

With these tips, you're sure to be the newest Kat on the Kasanova block, hanging ten. Peace, Love and Surf, Bra. Shaka.

Discover Hamurana: The Hidden Jewel

There's an unmistakable sense of serenity as we make our way up the sweeping, Sequoia-lined driveway of Hamurana Lodge. It's hard to believe this hidden jewel is nestled on 15 acres of lush green farmland just a stone throw from Lake Rotorua and a short 15 minutes drive from the hustle and bustle of the tourist Mecca.

The majestic manor with immaculately manicured gardens is bathed in sunshine. It's a glorious day in the Bay of Plenty region and a relief to have left the drizzling weather behind in Auckland.

My better half's jaw drops as he notices the 1975 Silver Shadow Rolls Royce parked outside. 'So this is how the rich and famous live eh?'

Staff scurry to meet us and help unload the car. Before we've stepped through the door into the lavishly appointed foyer, we're asked if we require tea, coffee or cold refreshments. I have to remind myself I'm not royalty but here on business in my official capacity as staff writer to review the accommodation for KASANOVA. Mental note: Try and behave like a serious journalist and not like a fat kid let loose in a candy store.

Wide-eyed I gaze around trying to absorb the rustic ambience, but there'll be time for that later as we're yet to meet our hosts who are waiting down at a nearby jetty. This afternoon's activities have been arranged and we're off sailing on Lake Rotoiti aboard the luxury 53 ft catamaran 'Tiua' (www.purecruise.co.nz). It's deceptively small from outside appearances, but the interior boast three guest toilets, kitchen, saloon lounge and cabins decked out in natural wood. The skipper, Matt Horder, an extremely likeable, experienced ship's captain and marine engineer is a walking encyclopedia when it comes to the lake and Maori culture. He happily provides us with Maori legends, sailing tips and offers the chance to take over the wheel. It's a perfect day for sailing. Lunch is an assortment of freshly baked baguettes loaded with salad, bagels with smoked salmon, homemade sausage rolls, and platters of fruit and topped off with blueberry pie.

A secluded bay on Lake Rotoiri is the home to Manupirura Hot Springs. Set in the side of the hill and surrounded by native flora with stunning views of the lake makes a great place for leisurely soak in hot mineral water. It's one of the designated stops. I'm so relaxed by the time we have to leave; my legs have turned to jello making it difficult to even stand straight.

Back on board, we're treated to custard tarts and short-bread before returning to the pier where Alex and Fred are waiting for us with the Rolls Royce. If this is what it feels like to be a celebrity – where do I sign up?

On the way back to the Lodge, we stop for a walk at Hamurana Springs – famous for the crystal clear water which bubbles up from the ground. It's a gentle 20 minute walk to the springs amongst native forest and bird life. A picture perfect place for a picnic or a stroll with the love of your life, but I'm much too ravenous to appreciate it, so it's back to the lodge we go.

Before dinner, Fred gives us the grand tour. It includes the organic vegetable garden where they will source all their food for the restaurant, the outdoor heated pool area, the gym with brand new state-of-the-art equipment and conference room facilities.

After freshening up, it's back downstairs to the bar area, where pre-dinner drinks, canapés and sparkling conversation from our very French and witty hosts take place. Time seems to race by and I haven't even realized it's after 8.30 when we sit down at the Le Manoir restaurant to drool over the French-inspired menu. Neil Slater, the in-house chef sources all his food and ingredients locally, so everything tastes divine. The decision of what to eat is by far the hardest one I've had to make all day. The oven-baked Hapuka with a lemon and herb crust and seasonal vegetables or the oven baked rack of lamb with mint and yoghurt sauce? I probably shouldn't have both if I want room for dessert. Another tough choice, but I can't go past the chocolate and pistachio terrine with Crème Anglaise and homemade ice cream. I'm in heaven. French music and an open fire place crackling away create a homey atmosphere, which is when I decide I never want to leave.

After dinner, my other half and I curl up on the pillowy sofa in front of the fireplace planning tomorrow's schedule. While the lodge feels miles from anywhere, it's just a short drive to any of the major adrenalin-fuelled activities available in Rotorua.

Finally retiring to our room which has a spectacular view over the lake and sacred Mokia Island, I realise while we've been indulging in great food, our windows have been closed, the blinds pulled, the bed folding down and chocolates left on the pillow. I could get used to this. I slip into a fluffy white bath robe provided and listen to music on the ipod dock, before settling back to watch a late-night movie on the flat screen.

Hamurana Lodge is the epitome of style and luxury with impeccable facilities, but what makes it stand out is the warmth and effervescence of the hosts. Ideal for honeymooners, couples who need to reconnect or individuals looking for some quiet rest and relaxation.

When considering a Rolls-Royce car it is usual to think of wood, leather and chrome, but the company has its roots in engineering. The refinement of its end product stems from its engineers' desire to get the smallest details correct. Long before the interior items are prepared, experts are working to ensure that the chassis components, power trains and bodywork are operating in fluid harmony. This is a world where welds are an art form and craftsmanship exists at a nano level.

Ghost is built around a steel monocoque body, which means there is no separation of chassis and body. The advantage of this construction is a reduction in exterior dimensions while preserving interior space. Consequently while Ghost is 400mm shorter overall than the Phantom saloon its interior space is comparable.

ENGINEERING A BENCHMARK

“The balance of refinement and dynamic ability is astonishing.”

Helmut Riedl, Engineering Director

The body has been engineered with a double front bulkhead to help insulate the interior from engine noise. It is constructed from steel sections and then wrapped in steel panels, which are brazed by hand. This allows a near-seamless join, which is then sanded by hand until it is perfect. In total, Ghost's frame contains 4.9m of seam weld and braze and 6,988 spot-welds. The bonnet and windscreen surround are then honed from aluminium.

“A Rolls-Royce should be graceful in every way: the way it handles, feels and brakes.” Helmut Riedl, Engineering Director

Ghost rides on a bed of air. Double-wish-bone front suspension and multi-link rear suspension work with an intelligent, four-cornered, air-suspension system and electronic variable damping to deliver the refinement that has been associated with Rolls-Royce for more than 100 years.

The new air suspension system in Ghost is so sensitive that it can detect even the smallest of changes. For example, it will sense the movement of a single rear passenger from one side of the seat to the other and compensate accordingly. A complex computer system reads multiple inputs from sensors around the car; the dampers alone make individual load calculations every 2.5 milliseconds. This ensures not only perfect comfort but also precise steering and dynamics for the driver. The air suspension system also incorporates a lift and kneel function, raising or lowering Ghost by 25mm.

Ghost also has a series of complex electronic aids to keep it composed on virtually any surface. These include Anti-Roll Stabilisation, Dynamic Brake Control and Dynamic Stability Control, including Dynamic Traction Control and Cornering Brake Control. These individual technologies work together under dual Integrated Chassis Management systems, meaning that even when subjected to a vigorous test Ghost remains perfectly poised. Its handling and safety systems operate as one, imperceptibly to the driver and passengers, to maintain optimum contact with the road in any condition.

“Our challenge,” says Engineering Director Helmut Riedl, “has been to preserve the prerequisite levels of comfort while delivering the most modern, dynamically interesting drive ever in a Rolls-Royce.”

Ghost is powered by a brand new, 6.6 litre twin-turbo V12 engine, unique to the model. Featuring direct injection, it produces 563bhp – enough to propel Ghost from 0-60 mph in just 4.7 seconds* and on to an electronically governed top speed of 155mph. With 780 Nm of torque available at just 1,500rpm, delivery of power is immediate and extremely smooth.

Power is transmitted through an eight-speed, shift-by-wire, automatic ZF gearbox. What this achieves is a feeling of endless, surging power, which is illustrated by the power reserve gauge on the fascia, replacing the more common rev counter. The new powertrain delivers this performance while emitting just 317g/km of CO2. Fuel consumption is 20.8 mpg / 13.6 l/100km.*

Safety remains paramount and the very latest technologies are used in Ghost. Side-impact beams in the front and rear doors combine with progressive rear crumple zones to absorb impacts. The Advanced Crash and Safety Management (ACSM) system takes measurements 2,000 times per second from sensors located around the vehicle.

A MODERN ROLLS-ROYCE

Ghost is the most powerful car that Rolls-Royce Motor Cars has ever produced. However, Rolls-Royce power is delivered in a very different manner to other cars. It arrives in an elegant, cossetting way that some have described as being designed to lower the pulse, not raise it.

The principle of simplicity extends to the act of driving Ghost. The host of complex engineering software and technologies beneath the surface serve to make driving easier and more enjoyable, not to intrude or confuse.

“Nothing should distract from the pleasure of driving Ghost.”

Helmut Riedl, Engineering Director

Ghost is more driver-focused than any Rolls-Royce car before it. The driver sits in a slightly elevated position behind the wheel, described as the authority position. This makes the view of the road much clearer. The fascia has been kept deliberately clear; it is spacious in design and has an intuitive layout. The controls are neatly sculpted, with the more important functions emphasised by accents of chrome. The soft light of the instrument panel glows through the familiar black-rimmed steering wheel, which in turn employs a number of violin keys as well as an ergonomic roller ball control.

The control centre display is concealed behind a veneered panel until its services are called upon. All features such as satellite navigation, telephone, communication and entertainment functions are displayed here and managed via a central rotary controller, flanked by quick-access buttons on the front centre console.

The optional driver assistance systems and technologies in Ghost are notable for their discretion and ease of operation. From the moment the driver approaches the car, optional Comfort Entry allows easy access, unlocking the doors when the key fob is within 1.5 metres and the cool chromed handle is grasped. Once you are in the car, voice control allows you to select from the control systems menus without using the central controller.

For ease of manoeuvring, cameras located around the car serve a number of purposes. Rear, front side and top view cameras can combine to give a fish-eye view at blind junctions or provide ground images with obstacle recognition and reverse path prediction when parking.

LEGENDARY CRAFTSMANSHIP

Rolls-Royce has a reputation for producing cars that transcend the mere automotive. There is a magic attached to the name, which stems in part from exquisite attention to detail and the fine materials used throughout.

Passing through 60 pairs of hands, the production process involves more than 2,000 individual operations and takes at least 20 days to complete.

“We don’t just paint our cars, we strive to create an incredibly deep, flawless shine.”

Lisa Taylor, Paint Associate

Ghost shares the same paint shop as Phantom and spends seven days being painted and polished to perfection. Five stages are required for the Ghost body. First a phosphate electro-coat is applied to protect against corrosion, then a layer of primer, a colour coat and finally two coats of clear lacquer. The body is hand-sanded between each layer and once the final coat is applied it is hand-polished for five hours.

Ghost is available in 12 exterior colours, each of which can be contrasted by the optional Silver Satin bonnet.

Flawless leather is an absolute requirement for the interior of a Rolls-Royce. For this reason, our leather is sourced from bulls raised in pastures free of barbed wire, ensuring that there are fewer imperfections in the leather.

Any other marks are carefully avoided by our skilled laser cutters. At least eight hides are used for an interior, and to ensure colour consistency, each hide comes from a batch dyed at the same time. The hides are drum-dyed rather than painted, ensuring that the colour permeates right through the leather. The process also means the leather remains much more supple, preventing cracking or squeaking and ensuring durability and longevity. All seats and interior panels are hand-stitched, using traditional upholstery techniques by those most skilled at their craft.

The natural beauty of the veneers in Ghost is brought to life by the skill of dedicated craftsmen and women. The natural burrs and grains are chosen for their intricacy and interest: veneer specialists choose only the finest logs from which these very thin cross sections are taken. Only veneer from one tree is used in any car. This ensures not only that the grain matches throughout the interior, but that each area ages and colours at the same pace. The parts are milled and sanded by hand before being coated with five layers of lacquer for protection and a mirror-like shine.

Ghost is a vision of simplicity

- of taking the core values of Rolls-Royce and creating contemporary effortless luxury. Ghost has been engineered to ride and drive in peerless fashion. The chassis’ poise delivers a dynamically engaging experience for the driver, yet a serene, comfortable ride for passengers. Engine power is delivered in a manner which has become an engineering signature, seemingly effortlessly and endlessly. The latest in-car technology falls easily to hand while forming part of the background.

Ghost embodies 21st-century Rolls-Royce: more than 100 years of engineering and design excellence expressed in modern and uncompromised style.

The OMEGA Skeletonized Central Tourbillon Co-Axial Platinum Limited Edition is the ultimate expression of the watchmaker's art. Each watch is handcrafted in OMEGA's Cellule Haut de Gamme (Tourbillon Atelier) in Bienne by a select group of horologists.

In a Tourbillon movement, all of the main components responsible for the timepiece's precision are assembled in a rotating cage. OMEGA is the only watchmaker ever to have created a central Tourbillon. Its titanium cage rotates completely every 60 seconds, offsetting the effect of gravity on the performance of the watch.

Tourbillon technology, dazzling design

The Skeletonized Tourbillon Co-Axial Platinum Limited Edition combines the complex Tourbillon technology with dazzling design elements.

The movement has a luxurious sun-brushed pearlescent finish; its bridges and mechanisms are hand polished. The rotor with its sapphire plate has been newly designed and is etched with the words "Limited Edition" and the watch's individual serial number (out of 18). The Skeletonized Tourbillon Co-Axial Platinum Limited Edition is equipped with a Breguet balance spring.

The Central Tourbillon's hands cannot be mounted on a central shaft in the conventional way. They are etched on to sapphire crystal disks and propelled by gearing at the peripheries of the disks. The result is dramatic – they appear to float freely above the movement.

One watchmaker's masterpiece

To make a skeletonized version of the Central Tourbillon, the watchmaker begins by sawing away any non-essential material from the plates and bridges, then bevelling their edges. Unlike products from conventional workshops, each Tourbillon is the work of one watchmaker who spends up to 540 hours on the creation of the skeletonized version of the watch. This means that every Skeletonized Central Tourbillon is unique – no two are exactly alike.

Each watchmaker engraves his or her personal initials on the underside of the Tourbillon base to assure that all parts can be returned to their maker after they have been galvanized. When a Central Tourbillon is returned to OMEGA for servicing, it will be placed in the hands of the original watchmaker.

Only 18 pieces of this Skeletonized Tourbillon Coaxial Platinum Limited Edition will be produced.

An OMEGA Co-Axial movement

The outstanding chronometric performance of OMEGA's exclusive Co-Axial calibre 2636 is enhanced by the state-of-the-industry escapement which has re-defined the way mechanical wristwatches are being made. The complex movement is assembled from 320 individual parts.

The remarkable Central Tourbillon calibre is housed in a platinum case presented with a black alligator bracelet.

While the Skeletonized Central Tourbillon watches are accurate – each one is a COSC-certified chronometer – they are particularly valued for their beauty and the complexity of the Tourbillon mechanism. Every component in the movement and case is produced exclusively for the Central Tourbillons.

The OMEGA Skeletonized Central Tourbillon Co-Axial Platinum Limited Edition is the exquisite creation of a legendary watch brand working at the peak of its powers.

LOUIS MOINET “VARIOGRAPH”

This watch features two innovations, both of which are exclusive creations from Louis Moinet. The first is its “Full Moon Indicator”® which is distinguished from standard moon-phase watches by a precise indication of the day of the full moon. The second is the World Map®, which spins once on its axis every 24 hours. The ring surrounding it enables simplified and easy reading of the time around the world, at a specific given time. It has been adjusted to Greenwich Mean Time and is not synchronised with a particular local time. It represents an artistic depiction of the world in motion.

Collection Fleurier Grand Complications

Mechanical self-winding Tourbillon 7-day power reserve with Jumping Hours

The self-winding 7-day Tourbillon movement is entirely manufactured in-house, crafted by DIMIER 1738, Manufacture de Haute Horlogerie Artisanale in Tramelan.

The lyricism of this timepiece is the result of passion: the combination of a know-how and a high sense of detail and decorative techniques. The two BOVET star complications, the Tourbillon and the Jumping Hour, are here expressing their purest character.

The rock crystal dial reveals the fleurisante style engraved bridges and the complications: the tourbillon cage at 3 o'clock with its “Lotus Flower”, emblem of BOVET, the power reserve counter at 9 o'clock and the Jumping Hours rotating disk, whose central display allows a perfect legibility thanks to the white luminova numbers. The minutes are indicated by the luminous rotating triangle as a small serpentine hand indicates the seconds on the tourbillon cage.

SEX Confidentials:

Confidentially, sex is the forbidden fruit for us all. Whether it's naughty or nice, sweet or saucy, sex is always in the back of our minds. They say it keeps the world in motion. They say it's the driving force for every move in life. Kasanova says it's just a necessity. AND, HERE'S HOW YOU GET IT.

Men far and wide are looking for the "key" to get "in". Women everywhere are looking for just the right moves. Help unlock the mystery and reach your full potential. Sexually, men are the hunters. Thus, women are the gatekeepers. With the onset of the 21st century, sex has become embedded in our daily lives like never before. Be it Pam Anderson, Jennifer Lopez, Sex & the City or Jenna Jameson, the truth is...sex sells.

So, what does it take for the average Joe to sell and seal the deal? Hear it straight from a 20-something year-old hottie. The juicy details in Sex Confidentially will take your sex life from ground level to the penthouse suite. Press that elevator button for full throttle and sky rocket to the top floor. Why wait? You know what's at the end.

So here's the deal, you're either one of these options or somewhere in the middle. Regardless, these tips will help you lock-it-up no matter your stage or sexual progression:

- A.) You're Ben who is on date three and looking to seal the deal.
- B.) You're Matt who has been dating for six months and the hot fire is now an ember glow. Ready to rock and roll? Follow the steps below.
- C.) You're Rob, married two years and the honeymoon is over. The sex was once smokin'...and you just need to hit that ace card again.
- D.) You're Jack, tied up for 15+ years and wondering where the door is. Don't leave just yet, you're lady is craving a certain something. Give it to her and you'll get more than you expected.
- E.) You're Steve, single, separated, or divorced and on the prowl. Young kitzenz love an experienced man. Just like George Clooney, you can play the field. Have your cake and eat it too. Follow these simple rules.

Maybe you're none of these guys. Maybe you're a little of each. Who cares! Use your imagination and be honest, we could all use more SEX in our lives. Bust through that imaginary door, take your woman by the waist, push her up against the wall, and handle it. Here's how:

Ben is past dinner and a movie. Flowers and chocolate seem ridiculous at this point. If you've done it before, it could just be the repeat date which ends in a kiss on the cheek. Truth is, women want surprise. We want to feel like the school-girl crush everyday. Take it to the next level. Date three needs to be off the charts. Take her to the beach, late at night. Pack some light hour d'oeuvres and a nice bottle of red. Bring a blanket, maybe two. Kiss her neck and breathe on it. Rub her thighs. Women respond to gentle touches to get warmed up. Offer her your coat just to get your arms around her. When the moment is right, make your move. In a dark spot, with moon light and wine, a woman will do just about anything. Make her feel beautiful, the rest will take care of itself. Remember, foreplay is everything. Women are not a mustang going zero to sixty in six seconds. We take some time to warm up and once we're there, it's a sweet ride.

Matt is ready to steam up the windows again after six months of dating. It's time to get back in the right rhythm and when you know someone, it's okay to get fun with it. Females can be more kinky than you think. Take her to a sex store, and let her know you're "a boss." The Playboy Store, The Hustler Store, or even your local sex shoppe can be the right move. Buy her whatever she wants: edible panties, chocolate paint, even colored whipped cream. Perhaps it's an adult movie she likes. Let her make the choices, otherwise it'll seem creepy. Now is not the time to be aggressive, allow her to open up naturally. Let her pick what she likes and your job is to support and flirt with her. Restraint is as sexy as sex, it'll make her want you more. Take your treats home and let the good times roll. She'll appreciate your honesty and the sexual anticipation will make for a blow-out evening.

NATURAL STRENGTH TRAINING

By FAHNESS LUTALO

As a martial arts competitor I need to be in tip top condition to perform at the highest level. I achieve my fitness goals through intense natural strength training and part time body building. My goal as an athlete is to become a master of my own body weight, training like an animal in the wild. A master of his/her own body weight can achieve super human feats of athleticism. It starts with core strength and balance, every movement of the human body is initiated by your abs and lower back.

I usually start out with a series of plyometric pushups, ab and lower back exercises. For every weight lifting exercise there is a natural strengthening exercise that matches it. Natural strength training works in the same cycle of body building but not quite as mandatory. With body building it usually takes 48 to 72 hours for the muscles to heal before you train them again. These exercises can sometimes be done two or three days in a row depending on the intensity of the workout and soreness.

I prefer to do my cardio before my muscle strengthening because cardio afterwards tears down muscle growth. All the blood that you spent 90 minutes pumping into your muscles will disperse during an intense cardio work out. It is better to spend time burning fat cells first and then blasting your muscles after. You will look more defined and maintain your weight more effectively. For those of you who think you can get ripped by body building without cardio you are greatly mistaken.

There are no weight lifting exercises that create muscle definition, you must make cardio a part of your muscle building process. For cardio, one of my favorite workouts is boxing & kickboxing. As a practitioner of these sports for over 30 years, I've come to realize that proper technique and form, forces your body to work harder than the generic aerobic kickboxing version that has no emphasis on proper technique. Here is an example of one of my workouts.

Cardio workout:

10 three minute rounds 15 second breaks

Round 1 – warm up round, light jog around the gym throwing punches

Round 2 – warm up round, jumping rope

Round 3 – speed bag

Round 4 – double end bag 500 to 1000 punches

Round 5 – heavy bag, nonstop power punching and kicking (full power)

Round 6 – footwork & body mechanics only

Round 7 – shadow boxing with hands only (full power)

Round 8 – shadow boxing with kicks only (full power)

Round 9 – shadow boxing with punches and kicks (full power)

Round 10 – shadow boxing with punches, kicks and updowns (full power)

Rob is a newly wed technically speaking, but too far away from the honeymoon. Be it kids or work, there just isn't enough time in the day to satisfy you both. What's the secret? Get out of town. Just pack up and drive. Does it matter where you go? NO. The fun will be on the road. It's a sex-travaganza full of car cruising and sensual signals.

Let her drive and touch her anywhere. Back up that seat and perform some down-stairs lip action. Trust a woman: that will get her to pull over. Slow down, find a secluded area, and swerve that car over to the side of the road. Open the door away from the street, bend her over the passengers side, and "drive-deep". Remember that spontaneity allows women to let go of their troubles and enjoy the action. If your woman prefers you to drive on the road trip, let your fingers do the action on her or suggest fallacio. Road-head can be private if you drive in the furthest left lane. If all else fails, roll play. Bad driver and traffic cop can take you straight to heaven, instead of jail.

Jack has been married for years, and needs to rekindle that 25 year-old love life from back in the day. Jack: it's as simple as this. Steal a couple pairs of underwear, a bra, and two different dresses from your wife's closet. Bring them to Victoria's Secret or any lingerie store. Don't be shy when one of the sales girls approaches you, they are there to help. Explain that you'd like to purchase an outfit for your wife and brought her garments to help with size and style. Is your lady's style risky or traditional? No matter as long as it's sexy. If you're unsure, buy a size up to make your woman feel small and delicate. When the special night comes, create a mood with candles and a bubble bath. Tell her what exactly it is that you love about her body: stomach, breasts, legs, lips, etc. Give her a sponge bath or dress her in the lingerie. Let the night continue in bed. The spark and spice is on from there.

Steve has moved on from any attachment and is playing the single life, like James Bond. Catching that perfect cutie can be a challenge. But, older and experienced men have something the young bucks don't: knowledge. Use it to shock your lady into submission. Take her shopping. Make her try on outfits in front of you. Young women have perfect bodies and aren't afraid to show them. Let her wear the hottest one out that night for dancing, drinking and a night of wild experiences. Keeping it low key with pool at local bar? Make sure to help her shoot. By night's end, that new outfit will be on the floor.

Cheers to the experienced man.

2011 McLaren MP4-12C

STORY: TERENCE MADDISON PHOTOS: MCLAREN

The new McLaren mp4-12c Super car is a remarkable piece of machinery with absolutely no stone unturned in its development. This is McLaren's first supercar designed and built entirely by McLaren under their new company philosophy of total supercar domination.

Everything about the car is absolutely beautiful, the super sexy lines, wheel hugging arches, it kind of reminds me of a woman on the prowl looking for her next catch. Beautifully feminine but can unleash the wrath of God in a blindingly fast millisecond and hurtle you from a standing start to 60 mph in as fast as 3 seconds. With a zero to 124mph in less than 10, seconds it might be a good idea to become acquainted with the perfectly positioned rear view mirror.

Under the hood you will find a M838t race-derived 3.8L twin turbo charged V8, with a teeth chattering 600 brake horse power and equally abundant torque figures. The engine has a low grumble at idle and when you put your foot down on the accelerator a symphony of senses hit the inner ear and you know that you have just awakened a mythical beast.

“ Absolutely Amazing. ”

With all this power being put to the pavement through McLaren's 7 speed seamless shift dual –clutch gear box (SSG), taken from McLaren's rich heritage in the formula 1 world championships. Allowing it to easily devour its competitors, like the Ferrari F430 Scuderia, Corvette ZR1 and the Lamborghini LP560-4.

2011 McLaren MP4-12C

Bringing this supercar from high speed to a stop is a breeze with oversized rotors and calipers with the grip strength of a 700 pound gorilla and the additional rear wing brake you can stop on a dime.

The McLaren MP4-12c is a marvel of innovation and light weight engineering, the most amazing of which is the monocoque chassis made entirely of one piece of carbon fiber. All molded in a totally new unique process developed by the master minds at McLaren. Another innovation taken from the formula one race tracks is the brake steer technology, where the inside rear wheel is braked during fast cornering to reduce under steer. It is also equipped with a pro active chassis control that keeps it balanced under heavy cornering.

This car has been entirely designed with the driver in mind, the driver seat is perfectly aligned with the pedal box and steering assembly making it an absolute joy to drive. With extensive research and development in the wind tunnel you can be assured that the aerodynamics on this supercar are second to none. Making the occupants feel totally safe as the 45mph speed signs fly by in a blur.

This car is a gem every KASANOVA should have in their car collection and with the relatively low numbers produced every year you shouldn't wait to put your purchase order in. Believe me when I say they will go fast if there is any left already for the late 2011 launch date.

Just be sure to show the women in your life a little more attention and not spend too much time admiring the new sexy feline in your possession.

THE GROUNDS OF THE HOTEL are perfectly manicured and clean, with an abundance of restaurants and bars to relax and engage in one another, or freely meet other visitors and friends to share in the experience. A row of three interior coastal cabanas – oversized booths with sheer draperies – provide intimate seating for couples and/or groups of four. Lined with honey-colored, wood panels, each has a framed mirror, a wood ceiling and candle-niche, creating a “room within a room” sensibility. Near the bar, a larger, semi-private cabana has views into the wine room. The cabana has burnished plaster walls and a large wood table for groups of six to eight.

The interior bar is an energetic setting with a striped cork floor, seating for 16, and a feature wall of back-lit “sunset” glass. The rosy glass wall creates a warm, inviting glow after sunset, when the ocean view fades. Nearby, peacock blue, leather wingback chairs add a visual pop, offering a special setting for couples while helping to form an elegant promenade from the main entry. The entry itself has been moved from within the hotel to the beach-front terrace, giving 1500 OCEAN its own exciting story and arrival sequence.

An outdoor Sunset Bar, complete with fire pits, cocktails and appetizers, offers the perfect West Coast venue to watch the sunset over the Pacific. Because of The Del's rich heritage, dining at the resort has always been a unique and enchanting experience. The ambience is demure and sexy, with candlelit dinners perfectly set to spark the flame of love. 1500 Ocean is a sure win!

TEMPEST SOUL
BOTANICAL ABSINTHE / GREEN TEA LIQUEUR

Story: Chelsea Dillon-Miller

Featured KASANOVA

Once upon a time, a dashing Kasanova had a saucy and bright idea. Tired of the usual beer and wine offered at his favorite hot spots, Mark Scaildone declared, "there has to be something better." A little research, one patent, and two stirs of biochemistry later: Tempest Soul was born. This magic elixir is like nothing you've ever seen. An herbal, absinthe, spirit mix with chartreuse globes suspended within the liqueur, this botanical beverage is the only one of it's kind currently on the market.

Mark is a 37 year-old, San Diegan living the high life. Originally from Boston, this company CEO has worked in everything from the coffee industry to dot.com's. He took his first company public at the age of 21 and hasn't stopped since. Looking to take your boring job to the next level? According to Mark, inspiration could be at the bottom of your bar glass. Initially raising an eyebrow at the 90's drink "Orbitz," Mark saw the green just around the corner. Realizing that suspended spheres in sports drinks didn't really quench the thirst, he changed the idea from sports-water to sports-liqueur.

It was as easy as a couple clicks later and Mr. Scaildone found the product for the Orbitz beverage on ebay.com. With no time to waste, he bought the patent. Then, took it to the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau for a small but essential change, make it into booze. Ever the business man, he wasn't discouraged when it took him two years to convince the US Food and Drug Administration that a little alchy and green balls wouldn't kill anyone. And, just like a woman, anything worth it is worth the wait. Infused with green tea extracts and with the newly introduced absinthe being legal in the States, Mark saw another opportunity- and took it by the balls so-to-speak. He mixed the spherical elements with a legal percentage of absinthe mingling the old and new world components.

As you can see, he hit the jack pot. The Tempest Soul botanical liqueur is set to drop in 2011 as one of the largest alcohol campaigns in California and Nevada. National marketing, production and manufacturing are set to follow next and with the unique, fun and flirty look of this beverage, we're sure to see it on the international scene in no time. Mark Scaildone actually owns the patent to suspend spherical elements in any alcohol content in the USA so if you're looking to follow him, you better buddy up real soon.

There are no impostures with this beverage however, because the moral is boys, you really can be your own CEO- it's just a matter of finding that million dollar idea and, take it from Mark, they're out there.

A regular at the club scenes in San Diego, Los Angeles, and Southern California in general, Mr. Scaildone has personally tested the full-proof effect of his product. Call him a mad scientist turned CEO and for all you Kasanovas out there the research is in: it's a panty-dropper. Let's just say it's taken his "career" to the "next level," personally and professionally. With flavors of herbal green tea (to help you recover from that hangover), anise (an aphrodisiac for women), and absinthe it contains the for-sure green, sparkly fairy dust to get those hotties downing it. A perfect mix of visuality and sensuality, this beverage can be layered with Jägermeister, fondly refered to as the "Zero Gravity," with Goldschlager as "The Pearl Necklace," or with Midori as "Dirty Leprachaun Balls." Try it when it drops in March 2011 for the celebration of St. Patty's Day (a fittingly green tie-in) and make up your own concoction, giving it a special name of your design.

Encouraged as a mixer or separately as shots, Tempest Soul was named after the stormy energy stirred up when enjoying this intoxicant. Palatable, user-friendly, and with melt-in-your-mouth "spheres of influence" this infusion is sure to please you and the ladies. How you're wondering? Well, the gravity defying beverage suspension is actually chemically cradling the green, matrix-like balls much as a virtual spider web would.

This custom and prestigious lava-lamp like mixture is the new liqueur with all it's allure and charm.

And frankly, even Mark Scaildone is bowing to it's greatness after many a private party and taste session, if 'ya know what we mean. Truth is, this is just a way for him to get his green balls in every woman's mouth.

So when you seal the deal due to Tempest Soul, write him a god-damn thank you card, man, at www.drinktempest.com.

'Cause you've never drank a dank liquor like this before.

Show a little soul and cheers it up, Kasanova.

CRAZY,

Q & A

A photograph of a person lying on their back on a sandy beach. They are wearing a red lace thong. The person's legs are bent at the knees and raised in the air. The background shows the ocean waves crashing onto the shore.

TOMARCHIO

AMBITIOUS, UNSTOPPABLE!

K: How did your career begin?

B: I started in a local theater called Kids Onstage in 3rd grade. I was in it til they closed down in 8th grade. We performed for schools, libraries, and even the governor of MD, all over the northeast. It was a musical theater and dance troupe. The theater is a historic site from the turn of the century. It still sits there, empty, but the front of it is now a knick-knack store. My dream is to buy it (as soon as I can afford it), and to restore it to its normal beautiful self . So kids can enjoy it like I used too.

K: What were your childhood dreams?

B: When I was 2 yrs old I told my parents I was going to be a movie star. I even had my oversized movie star sunglasses that I would wear to prove it!

Q & A

K: Where did you grow up?

B: I grew up in Ellicott City, MD. I have a younger brother and sister who I'm very close with. We grew up in a wooded area with not much to do except fish, ride atvs/dirtbikes, and go cow tipping....uh yes!

K: What is Your Date of Birth?

B: Christmas Day! (and my brother who is 6yrs younger is born on Christmas Eve- weird right?) But we had a big celebration every year.

K: Who has been your inspiration?

B: Hmm, maybe my dad. He started his own company from scratch when he was only 14yrs old. Now it's one of the largest companies (automotive) on the east coast and is slowly spreading through out the US.

K: What current projects are you working on?

B: Well I am working for a producer who started his own company and we have a tv show and a feature we are shooting this year. I also have a new series on E that will be starting to film at the beginning of the year that focuses on my life and career in this crazy business of entertainment! Im starring in a new webseries called, "Life After Lisa" which is shooting in the spring in Maryland, and has a lot of recognized names along with some talented up and comers. As most know, I've been the spokesperson for Extenze for the past 5 yrs and just shot another spot with Jimmy Johnson as my co-host and that should be airing soon . I just started hosting for Skull Candy- love them! I shot a modeling campaign for a new rock/hip jewelry called Silver Angels and that campaign should be coming out soon, so you will see me here and there alot this year! My film that I produced and starred in, "6 Nonsmokers" just starting hitting the festivals and we are getting amazing reviews, so be on the lookout for it! I also started my own production company, Wadjet Productions, and we have a few shows in the works as well! Phew!

Always check out my website for updates,
www.Bridgetta.com

K: What are your 5 year career goals?

B: To land my own comedy series on a cable channel or network tv, to star in a box office hit, to sell one of my many creative shows that I have written/created, to write a book and have it on the top seller list, to buy back the theater where I first started it all, to start my program to help juvenile delinquents stay off the streets and keep busy. Oh- and did I mention to star in an action packed film where I show off my skills of how I can kick ass? And to be in Playboy before it closes!

K: What have been some of your major life lessons learned?

B: I always learn the hardway! Im hardheaded, stubborn, and only live for the moment most of the time—which gets me into tons of trouble. But I don't regret anything because its all a life lesson and you grow from all your mistakes.

K: Is there anyone or anything you would like to thank?

B: Anyone who has helped me get to where I am now. All of my close friends for being there and supporting me, my fans, and Isabelle my photographer because we work so well together and without her I wouldn't have these great pics in your mag!

K: If you had everything to do over up to this point, what would you change?

B: Nothing- I've DEF experienced a lot in my life, which has made me the person I am today. I wouldn't be me if I would take something back.

K: What do you look for in the object of your affection?

B: Besides the obvious of a great body, smile, and eyes? I LOVE tattoos on a guy- shows your creative/artsy side, and I love creative people. I like guys with ambition who are passionate about something, and have their own career already going. They have to be athletic because I like staying active and enjoy the company outdoors. Must love travel, and must love animals- cuz I have 3 dogs and a snake. (Yep!) Oh- and MUST have a great sense of humor cuz I'm a dork at heart. ♥

10 SEX TIPS

Tid-Bits for the KASANOVA King

Every royal man has his beautiful queen. After some time, however, we all need a new ruling ritual. The usual “missionary” and “doggie style” position will become second nature and then you’ll need some new tips to keep it hot and spicy. Here’s where Kasanova comes to your rescue and keeps you and your courtiers happy. Just a queen you say? We’ll keep a crown on her “head” too...

HOT SEX TIP #1:

Aphrodisiacs have been known since the dawn of time to boost sex drive, for men AND women. Has your lady been a little cool lately? Warm her up with these:

ALCOHOL is the obvious cure...but have you tried new flavors? Cointreau Noir is a new liqueur out with a sexy orange, flavorful finish. It can be purchased at Bevmo for around $70 USD and just might be the thing to impress your lady in waiting.

CHOCOLATE: Known by the Mayans to produce “unworldly” affects in people, this sweet sensation can be used in so many ways to make those clothes fall off. Purchase expensive, one-stem strawberries dipped in chocolate. Godiva Chocolatier offers the most prestigious dipped strawberries and chocolates in the world. Find your local shop or order online for this tantalizing treat at www.godiva.com.

SEAFOOD: Oysters and shrimp are the most common and temptuous underwater snacks for making those waves crash. Instead of going out, try making a scampi dish at home for your woman (or women). Include these shellfish with some tossed pasta, white wine, herbs, and a delicate cheese. See what’s tossed after that!

Women appreciate the thought of something homemade and will make your night from there on out.

FRUIT: Seeded, scrumptious and soft (just like a something else you eat), fruits of all types are known to arouse. Banana, avocado, pomegranate, fig, papaya, passion fruit and peach are just a couple of the hot topics. Make smoothies in the morning for an awakened session or bring a bowl of mixed fruits to bed at night. Suck and rub from there, the fruit will do its magic.

HOT SEX TIP #2:

This tip is literally hot. Light some candles all around your residence. Make sure you have candles of all different sizes right by your bed, lit. Throw some fresh rose buds around for a final touch. When your posse arrives home, get wild and naked right away. Drip candle wax on a back, ass, legs, stomach and breasts. It won’t burn if the candles have been going for awhile. Test it on yourself first. The mixed sensations of being naked and having steaming wax dripped on a body will emulate anything else you’d like to drip all over. Sensuality is key here...enjoy.

HOT SEX TIP #3:

Toys, toys, toys. Be it a vibrator, dildo, whip or costume, this is the sure fire way to heat up any night. Not sure what her style is? Ask your local sex store employee, they seem to be versed in all the latest gadgets and preferences. Women love anything that stimulates their clitoris, which then leads to lubrication and penetration. Vibrators in all shapes, sizes and colors are a must. Let her perform bondage and fetish acts on you, the shift in control will turn her on. Glass toys can be frozen or heated up for additional temperature effects and they make women go wild. Feathers and fabrics are perfect to rub all over the body. Let your imagination run free at a sex store or purchase online as well. See www.adamandeve.com for the best selection.

HOT SEX TIP #4:

Looking for a way to fill that extra room or empty corner? A sex swing is the way to get things moving. These can even be installed outdoors for some exterior action. Swing away and enjoy the pleasures of several different positions. We recommend Love-Swings-R-US for a safe and enjoyable session. Once suspension is in the game, everyone can hit just the right angle. www.loveswingsrus.com

HOT SEX TIP #5:

If you haven’t heard of “The Liberator Wedge,” it’s time you know. It literally will “liberate her.” An exclusive foam core design allows you to prop your woman right up. Be it the cheeks or the lips, this special pillow allows just the right angles. In fun fabrics and soft as all get out, these “tools” come in all different shapes and sizes. Check out the website at www.liberator.com for all your pillow talk needs.

HOT SEX TIP #6:

Water time. Get in the shower, a jacuzzi, a pool, or the ocean. The tingle of water will offer a new element. In the shower? Wash her. In the jacuzzi, massage her. In the pool, chase her.

KASANOVA® SHAVING TIPS

Every KASANOVA knows that the daily chore of shaving can be tedious and frustrating. KASANOVA has a few simple shaving tips to help you streamline your grooming ritual, leaving your face strokably soft and smooth.

USE A FACE SCRUB:

Start with clearing your razors path by washing away oil, dirt and dead skin cells. This open pores, primes follicles and raise stubs for a closer shave. We recommend starting with The Gillette® Fusion® ProSeries™ Thermal Face Scrub or if you have sensitive skin The Gillette® Fusion® ProSeries™ Sensitive Face Wash.

HYDRATE YOUR SKIN:

Shave in the shower, a hot shower is ideal, as it aids in opening your pores to help cleanse your skin, soften your hair making it easier to cut. Shaving should be your final step before you leave the shower. If you shave at the sink, hydrate your face in warm water for a few minutes.

USE A SHAVING GEL:

Apply a nondrying shaving gel in a circular motion on the shaving areas. This helps lock in moisture and soften facial hair for a more comfortable shave.

USE A SHARP BLADE:

To avoid nicks and skin irritation always use a sharp blade. Blades should be discarded after 4-5 uses. Use a razor with an indicator strip which fades when you are no longer getting an optimal shave. We recommend The Gillette Fusion MVP razor in manual or power. Go easy on your skin by using light gentle strokes and rinse your razor frequently.

POST SHAVE PROTECTION:

It is important to calm irritation and balance your skins moisture to avoid clogged pores or ingrown hairs. Use a non-alcohol based after shave such as Gillette® Fusion® ProSeries™ Intense Cooling Lotion for just shaved skin.

Fusion Power MVP Razor
Proven performance for sensitive skin.

10 SEX TIPS

In the ocean? Cradle her. Women love the element of surprise. Make her feel like a mermaid and you'll be her mer-king.

HOT SEX TIP #7:

Sex films, videos, dvds or online. Take her to a show or make your own at home. The idea of watching others or yourself in "the deed" essentially turns on the interest in her brain. Pick her favorite style film or watch girl-on-girl action. It's much more common for women to be attracted by the moans and groans of other women—there's something very accessible about it. Once she's heated up, it'll be your turn.

HOT SEX TIP #8:

Sensual massage oil can be purchased at any specialty store or on the web. They're filled with sexy smells and a sensuous feel. Drizzle around her body and yours. The feel of your hands around her elements will bring your two energies together. From there the sex might be sloppy and oily...but one thing is for sure...it'll be good.

HOT SEX TIP #9:

Ice cubes have their place in drinks AND bed. The feel of ice on a woman's body will perk up just the right places. From there, you will be aroused and the fun can continue. Squeeze, rub and drip the ice everywhere.

Who cares if the sheets get wet, she'll get wet too.

HOT SEX TIP #10:

Imagine with each other. Talk about your ideas and fantasies together. Sex therapists say the number one block to sex is psychological. This imaginary activity allows those barriers to break instantly. Whether she's a naughty school girl or you're her knight in shining armor, the idea of imaginary role play will get the ball rolling and the sex-a-slangin'. Sex thoughts are healthy so use and share them together.

These sure fire sex tips are the thing to keep your sex life burning through the night.

Crank that heat up, Kasanova, and enjoy the flames.

Porsche

918 Spyder

In this edition of KASANOVA magazine we bring to you the awe inspiring Porsche 918 spyder with its breath taking good looks and alluring charm it is a new spark of inspiration for the 20th century KASANOVA.

The car sits low and very flat and has a very menacing appearance like a roman gladiator who will destroy all in its path. It looks as comfortable on the road as it would be on the track, not surprising because this vehicle was developed from the legendary 917 race car, giving the 918 an infusion of race winning DNA.

This supercar looks like it is going 200mph standing still which coincidentally is the top speed of this magnificent vehicle. Powered by three electric motors that produce 218 horse power and a high revving v8 engine inspired, from the Aero Spyder Lmp2 prototype making an astounding 500 horse power giving the Porsche 918 Spyder a whopping 718 horse power on tap to do with what you may.

The 918 Spyder is Porsches first true plug in hybrid that comes equipped with a number of really sophisticated features, such as the electronic all wheel drive and torque vectoring technology, then there is the PDK and and electric boost function, all of this comes together to provide an electrifying experience to the senses. All of the vehicles components are designed with performance in mind around the advanced CFK monocoque chassis.

With an overall curb weight of 3284lbs giving the vehicle an astounding power to weight ratio of 4.5 to 1. It takes less than 3.2 seconds from 0-60 miles per hour, making it a true high performance hybrid. The result of all of that power is that this car beat the Porsche Carrera GT lap time at the famed Nurburgring by an amazing two full seconds, with a lap time of seven minutes and thirty seconds, surely enough to satisfy any purist sports car fanatics, all this with an amazing seventy eight miles to the gallon when driven moderately.

There are four driving modes to choose from, you can select E mode and enjoy a 15.4 mile range on just electricity alone, or you can select Hybrid mode giving you the best fuel efficient option, then there is Sport mode which is the best setting if looking for a spirited driving experience and finally there is Race mode , which transforms the car into a fire breathing dragon ready to scorch any track record.

Story: Terence Maddison Photos: Porsche

In closing this car gives you the very best of both worlds, high performance and beautiful looks all while staying conscious of the environment, a feat few have been able to manage.

The interior of the 918 takes design que's from its predecessor the Carrera GT, with its ascending center console and signature three free standing instruments. All controls are found in the multi functioning sports steering wheel with additional controls located on a touch panel in the center console. The paddle shifts quickly and decisive, the throttle response is fast and smooth. The engine note is quite mesmerizing and goes from a low rumble to a high pitched scream effortlessly. When you sit in this car it feels if your lover has given you a warm embrace and has told you to do what you want with her.

WINTER WONDERMAN

Style Guide for the New You

So you recently fired your stylist for suggesting you sport a purple polka-dotted parka and a man purse. Now you've got a walk-in closet full of muddled garments and a new nametag that reads, "Newfound Outfitter." Don't tear your hair out just yet—KASANOVA has conjured up some style tips that will help you get into gear and woo women all winter long.

SUIT YOURSELF

Show me a woman who doesn't get googly-eyed over a man in a suit and I'll show you Portia deRossi—who of course only waxes poetic for Ellen DeGeneres in a suit. Although its regal introduction to the fashion scene dates back to the early seventeenth century, the suit is timeless garb. Worn for more than just red carpet events, weddings and business meetings, the suit can be mixed into your daily attire. Take for example, actor Zac Efron and R&B singer Usher, who have both worked the tailored look into their everyday wear. Try infusing a casual T-shirt into your three-piece or experiment with different patterns and colors. You too can exert the ultimate sexiness that comes from the mighty, mighty suit.

RUGGED RAGS & RICHES

Evolve from blah to aha! by dazzling up your denim with stylish tops and jackets. Because jeans are classic wardrobe essentials, they can be worn with almost anything depending on the occasion. Gracefully tackle Casual Fridays by wearing jeans with a button-down shirt, knit tie, and a sporty blazer. For weekends, wear a looser, more relaxed pair of jeans coupled with a uniquely printed top. Just be sure to wear jeans that match your maturity and actual size. There's nothing worse than a guy in too tight jeans or those that are overly baggy. You can also go retro by whipping out some distressed styles that allow for a more rugged look. Whoa, whoa whoa

Haul the bell-bottoms back into the attic. Simply try a dark wash with minor tears and slight discoloration. For nights in the Dating Game, a solid-color shirt worn under a cardigan always works well. Just remember, if you wear your pants right, you will have women bowing to the new King of Jeans.

SPORTING GOODS

Stay active with opulent accessories that will add style to your sport. If you're hitting the asphalt at 90 miles per hour in your speedy convertible, enhance your look with designer driving moccasins.

An exotic pair of Tod's for Ferrari will do the trick. The trendy slippers feature grooved insoles much like the seats of a Ferrari sports car. Available in traditional black and brown, these upscale loafers also come in red and blue. To ensure your get-up is incredibly a lamode from head to toe, try a pair of polarized sunglasses. No outdoor fit is complete without them.

Whether you're styling on the putting green or breaking a sweat on the tennis court, chic eyewear is indispensable for the playboy lifestyle. Porsche Design polarized sunglasses are a great pick if you're looking for a lavish look and protection from the sun.

FUSE YOUR DASHING GOOD LOOKS WITH INCREDIBLE STYLE. WOMEN ARE PRACTICALLY DYING FOR YOUR MANHOOD TO RE-EMERGE.

FROM METRO TO MACHO

This is a public notice to all metro-fashionistas—Justin Timberlake brought sexy back like four years ago. It's over and done with. Now that we're moving on to bigger and better jeans, I mean things, you can fuse your dashing good looks with an incredible machismo style. Women are practically dying for your manhood to reemerge. No pun intended. Perfectly groomed beard, good. Super tight shirts, bad. From Metro to Macho. I'M SEEING THIS GIRL, AND I REALLY LIKE HER. I ALWAYS TEXT HER AND ASK HER OUT, BUT SHE IS ALWAYS BUSY OR GOT SOMETHING ELSE GOING ON. HOW DO I GET HER TO SPEND TIME WITH ME MORE THAN ONCE A WEEK, WITHOUT BEING TOO PUSHY? ...WANTING MORE

Dear Wanting More,

The key to a woman's heart is hard to find. But once you do, she will be yours forever. You have to find out what makes her tick. The most important thing you can do is send her a sweet message at a time you usually don't, try in the morning or midday, when she least expects it. The surprise factor will certainly light a spark. And word to the wise, don't always be asking her out. Just say Hi! As her how she is, or how her day is going...Woman like to feel like you are sincerely interested in her, as a person. Not that you just want her on your arm, when you want her. Respect her space and time, and be cool. She'll come around...and just when you think she's going to say no to one of your invites, she won't. And voila!... The key to the door is unlocked. Patience is the key.

MY GIRLFRIEND AND I HAVE BEEN TOGETHER FOR ALMOST 2 YEARS NOW. I LOVE HER, BUT THINGS IN THE BEDROOM HAVE GOTTEN A LITTLE BORING. HOW DO I BRING THE PASSION BACK? ...SEXUALLY BORED

Dear Sexually Bored,

It is very typically for the flame of passion to dwindle a bit in long term relationships. You can, however, easily fuel the fire. The secret is spontaneity. Within all women exists the desire to be wanted by the man she loves...So try initiating sex at unusual times, during the day, when you get home from watching a movie, after you're already dressed for work, not before :). Unexpected sex is always the best sex. Another important note is, take the sex out of the bedroom. Come up behind her while she's in the kitchen cooking dinner...Hug her, kiss her neck, kiss her lips, start to undress her...and you know the rest. This is a sure fire way to light the fire between you too again, and keep it burning for good.

I MET A SUPER HOT GIRL THAT I LOVED BEING WITH. THE SEX WAS GREAT, HER BODY WAS INCREDIBLE, SHE WAS ADORABLE. YOU GET THE PICTURE. BUT I MESSED UP. I SLEPT WITH SOMEONE ELSE WHILE PARTYING AND SHE FOUND OUT. NOW SHE WANTS NOTHING TO DO WITH ME. I FEEL TERRIBLE, AND THE WORST PART IS THAT I WANT HER BACK. I MADE A MISTAKE...HELP! ...THE FOOL

Dear Fool,

This is a tough one. Once you hurt a woman, it's hard to undo the damage. Some women would absolutely NEVER forgive a man for that, period. Others may be more open, but you have to come on really strong with love notes, flowers, gifts, and promises you intend to keep. And you truly have to never do it again. It's one thing to sleep with another woman because you felt like it and could care less, then you've gotta be prepared to lose the one you've got. Now I certainly don't recommend you go around hurting people, but sometimes things happen, and you have to live with it. But if you truly feel like you made a mistake and you've potentially risked losing someone special that you want to keep. You better get your act together, and change. You have to become a better man, one who is more focused on the things you really want, like a woman to love and be good for, than any immediate gratification that has serious consequences. I hope this helps buddy. Otherwise, this is one serious mistake you're going to have to live with. Be better next time.

I'VE BEEN SEEING A GIRL FOR ABOUT A YEAR NOW. I KNOW IT'S PROBABLY TIME TO START GETTING MORE SERIOUS, BUT WHAT IF I'M JUST NOT READY YET? IN FACT, I DON'T KNOW IF I EVER WANT TO GET MARRIED. HOW DO I TELL HER? OR TAKE SOME SPACE WITHOUT CRUSHING HER?

... NOT MARRIAGE MATERIAL

Dear Not Marriage Material

The most important thing you can do is be HONEST. Would you want your time wasted? Would you want to be strung along without knowing you were heading for a dead-end? No. Most women want to marry the man of their dreams, or at least the man they are in love with, so if you know, even just right now, that you're not ready for that, you have to tell her. Don't wait...Don't beat around the bush. Tell her directly. She may hurt and cry, and it may ultimately lead to a break up, but in the long run, it's best for her...And for you. Then you can go on enjoying bachelorhood for as long as you like, and date women who aren't seeking serious relationships. They are out there. The key to finding them is being up front from day one with all the women you meet. This way you can enjoy a bevy of beauties, with no strings attached! Now go get 'em KASANOVA....They're waiting.

MY GIRLFRIEND AND I HAVE RECENTLY STARTED EXPLORING WITH A LITTLE ROUGH PLAY. I AM A LITTLE UNSURE OF THE BOUNDARIES. HELP.

... ROMANTICALLY ROUGH

Dear Romantically Rough,

It is perfectly normal for couples to experiment with sexual boundaries of eroticism. It can make for a very healthy and satisfactory sexual relationship between two people.

ASK KASANOVA

GET TO THE NITTY GRITTY - ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS EVERY MAN WANTS TO KNOW

Dear Romantically Rough,

The fact that she asked for this type of sexual pleasure, means that she gave you permission to explore that type of sexual play with her.

You being the physically stronger one in the situation are the one with the control. You should be aware of your masculine strength, so you have to remember that this is for pleasure, not for pain. So don't try to hurt her. You may be slapping her, but you are not beating her. There is a huge difference. The mentality behind your action is key.

Too rough, is when you physically hurt her, or violate her trust in you, by not maintaining control of your strength and going too far with the rough play without considering how she is feeling or experiencing it.

When exploring this type of eroticism you should always keep in mind to play "Gently Rough"...Remember that.

You can also ask her... "Is that too rough Baby"...Does that hurt?, etc "...Communication is important, especially when starting to explore together. This way you learn directly what each other's boundaries are.

This type of sexual play can be very pleasurable, for both men and women, as they can achieve a heightened sexual peak due to the enhanced masculine and feminine roles.

*So enjoy it! And Remember...Play "Gently Rough."
